Urbana, Illinois
WE THE CLASS OF 1987
THIS YEAR’S

June Mank

Ever needed to find anything, do anything, fix anything? Mrs. Mank is the only person in this school who will always know what to do, or who to ask. Above and beyond the line of duty, Mrs. Mank has been known to lend money and even her car for good causes. Clearly, if Mrs. Mank was ever to leave her job at Uni (perish the thought), the school would immediately cease to function. Despite major changes in the school’s administration, Mrs. Mank has always managed to keep the school running smoothly (except maybe on the days with shortened bell schedules — but nobody’s that good). We thank Mrs. Mank for being so helpful (and for keeping the office so clean!).
Mrs. Suslick taught us English when we were Sophomores and of course when we were Seniors, perfecting our sentence structures, classifying our parts of speech, and adjusting our misplaced modifiers (well, most of them). She taught us the fine art of argument, helping us to become more objective, sensible human beings. Most of all, she encouraged us to pursue whatever goals we set for ourselves during the years. She even read over our college essays! We thank Mrs. Suslick for being so considerate, and for working so hard for our benefit.
How Would You Describe Uni?

"It is a funny farm for brains." - Anonymous

"Chaos with a purpose." - Mrs. Jockusch

"Uni high is a wonderful place to be—it has a great atmosphere." (Ed.-A nice healthy blend of oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen, and several trace elements) - Anonymous

The thrill is gone.

Fast times at Uni High.

William is introduced to fine international cuisine.
"The wildest, weirdest, nifty-neato school ever." - Anonymous

"Rationalized insanity." - Anonymous

"Gawky!" - Anonymous

"Life at Uni: *@#%!!" - Anonymous

"Everyone dresses a little oddly in Madrigals. It adds character." - Miriam

She-Ra, Princess of Power

No problem — It'll fit.
"Scandalous! A veritable hotbed of liberalism! I don't know why we're permitting this! This is our country!" - Rick

"A good place to have a beer." - Paul Debevec

"This isn't so bad!" - Fabio

Highway to heaven.

Nothing like ice-cream on a nice cold day.

"Uni High is a nice place mostly, but the paint is peeling." - Dave Han

"Who are these people?" - Anonymous

"Om." - Prasanta and Shamit

Thomas looks for lunch.

Watch it Claudio, he knows Kung-Fu.
This year's fall play was written and conceived entirely by Uni students, with invaluable help from visiting artist Jeff Glassman (of the United Mime Workers) and Uni's own Ruth Wortis. While there was an abundance of humorous material, the students also took the opportunity to publicize some of their political beliefs, once again reaffirming Uni's worthwhile position as a bastion of liberalism in a dying conservative world.
"Sexism is an American institution."

"Are you prepared to ask more questions?"

"Give me that script!"

"How avant-garde."
"I danced my feet off."

Uni's sumo-wrestling team

"Hot stuffed potatoes at a cool, cheezy price."
Emily Osborn

"The food is great and inexpensive."

"They're selling fried rice?"
Dances were the highlights of Uni social life. The phenomenal DJ skills of Rick Burkhardt, always willing to compromise his own musical tastes, carried this year's rock-and-roll festivals to unprecedented heights, as Uni students of all ages displayed their breathtaking and sometimes wildly provocative gyrations on the dance floor. [Ed. Guess who wrote the copy?]
"School dances are just like soap operas, if you pay attention to certain people." - Anonymous

"Uni should start a professional air band" - Rick

Breeding grounds of liberalism

A tender moment
The faculty organized an immensely entertaining Christmas party this year after sweating and gasping during several rehearsals in the south attic. From the faculty band’s tuneful (tuneless?) emissions to the staff’s athletic rendition of “The Twelve Days of Christmas,” the teachers discovered a way to keep their students’ attention.
This year's team was Uni's first ever VARSITY soccer team. Under the direction of new head coach Tom Scott (with help from Patron Saint, Mr. Garcia) the team went 5-5 against both twin city and out-of-town teams. The team worked hard to help Coach Scott, who had never coached soccer before, and laid a foundation for a solid program in the next few years. Highlights of the season included our miraculous comeback against Blue Mound and the squashing of Charleston and Judah Christian.
Under the perky leadership of Coach Neaville (with a little help from captain Eugene Peppers), the Boys Cross Country team started as an almost completely new and younger team. The Illinek harriers left all the other teams "running scared" at the Clinton Invitational and qualified for sectionals.

"We may not win, but we sure are smart." - Eugene

"Not bad for a bunch of math nerds." - Shamit

Use the force, Eugene.
This year's Girls Cross-Country team made it to State again. In spite of tough competition and adjusting to a new coach these 11 members excelled to new heights. Through hard practices and fun parties they all worked hard and had a good time. Pictured (left to right, top to bottom): Kim Clausing, Tamar Shapira, Michay Brown, Kathleen Liu, Marion Knight, Miriam Davidson, Bonnie Neaville, Emily Osborn, Veerle Peshkin, Ellen Wheeler, Ellen Knight, and Sivan Ritz.

Girls Cross Country

“They have nice legs” - Rick

“They try hard and sweat a lot and they were cool.” - Amy Eades
"They look damn cute in them tights." - Julie Kimmel

"Running is only half of being part of the Cross Country team." - Anonymous
Yes, there was a swim team without Shiela, and it was a good one. They worked hard, braving the 5:30 AM Freer ice water, the two weeks of double practice torture, the hairballs, the cockroaches, and... Al. Al and his orders: 'quiet girls', 'kick', 'don't breathe', and 'get in the water'. Al and his pink shirts, green shorts, red tennis shoes and Don Johnson shades. But in the end it paid off, and Al wasn’t all that bad. They continued achieving, they beat personal times, Iris, Lulu and Dandi went to state and they all looked great in their "Porsche" suits. Their biggest disappointment was that on the last bus, the VCR was out for repairs.

The porche of the pool
This year’s track team was coached by rookie Bonnie Neaville. There were five seniors — Eugene Peppers, Robert Liu, Kathleen Liu, Kim Clausing, and Kathy Harmon — who lent their experience and talent to the squad. The captains were Eugene, Robert, Kim and Kathleen. The newly-established morning practices were met with little or no enthusiasm, but the extra effort paid off at race time.

The final push

Chipmunk shotputting
Under the leadership of coach Tom Scott, the Illineks showed improvement and team strength, won several games (including two in a row), and earned the title of "WLRW Team of the Week." With almost the whole team returning next year (and now that Tim has both legs healed), the guys team will be stronger than ever. In the end, the team also learned what the word "pride" means to them.

Height does have its advantages.

The team
Without last years seniors, it was tough to get started, but under the relentless coaching of Sally Walker, Pat McLoughlin and some volunteer assistants, the team worked hard, striving for improvement. Practice was tough with push-ups and sprints, but also entertaining with wild shorts day and... Tina.
This year the boys’ J.V. basketball team was coached by two experienced newcomers, Tom Scott and Rick Seymour. Although some players felt it was a disappointing season, the team as a whole improved tremendously, with several members moving up to the varsity level. The team also won two games back-to-back in the middle of the season, well-deserved victories for the hardworking players. We look forward to more successes in the next year.
The Girls J.V. had one of their best seasons ever. Under the coaching of Pat McLoughlin, the team improved and finally won another game. Their enthusiasm roused and kept Pat on his toes. Pebbles and Pari’s hook shots are only a couple of the great features of the spirited J.V. team.
Keep smiling, Lulu!

YEARBOOK

The Yearbook staff, sponsored by rookie Jennifer Van Duizen, put in long hours of layouting, developing, and copyfitting to insure that this year would be as memorable as ever for the rest of the school. They listened to Eugene’s “box” a lot and ate lots of fried chicken.

GARGOYLE

Along with their lovely, hardworking sponsor, JVD, the Gargoyle staff ushered in phase II with the use of computerized laser technology. Editing duties were shared by William Gillespie and Joe Futrelle until Mr. Gillespie was dismissed for tax reasons.

AGORA DAYS COMMITTEE

Agora "Week," only three days long this year, was organized and directed by Senior Eric Krock. Classes that were taught included Massage and Pressure Points, Transformer Appreciation, and Parental Manipulation.

UNIQUE

This year's Unique staff began with three members and ended up with ten. Unique's fabulous sponsor, Mrs. Suslick, returned in time for bake sales, pizza parties, etc. The many quality submissions resulted in a lot of hard work in selection, but also enjoyable reading for the staff.

Physics Club enjoyed the leadership of club founders/co-presidents Ed and Todd. With additional help from Mrs. Macur, the members were able to participate in such activities as playing with lasers and seeing a man put his hand in boiling mercury, coming away uninjured. The members weren’t daring enough to attempt this.

PHYSICS CLUB
J.V. CHESS

The J.V. chess team was coached by Mr. Butler. This year they gained many new members. In Mr. Butler's ingenious effort to interest new players he took an entirely Sophomore team to an invitational. They lost for the first time in three years, but Mr. B. did spark interest among them.

VARITY CHESS

Despite the loss of most of last year's team and the grievous "Debate Brief Night Massacre," the chess team fought back, leaving a trail of broken and bloodied pawns in its wake.

H.I.S.S.

Imagine the thrill of careening down a hillside in a three-wheel chariot under heavy crossbow fire to attack a mighty Byzantine fortress! Well, H.I.S.S. wasn't entirely like that (it was much more historically accurate), but that doesn't mean it didn't get the ol' adrenaline flowing. Arne Gullerud and Mr. Butler were more or less in charge.

LATIN CLUB

Under the leadership of Leah Reingold (Pres.), Dan Jacobson (VP), Rachel Gushee (Sec/Treas), and Mr. Norcott (sponsor), Latin Club debuted with many meetings and fund-raisers.

EXECUTIVE STUDENT COUNCIL

Executive Student Council was so generous this year that it ran out of money, supplying the students with a new microwave oven, scoreboard control, basketball uniforms, a stereo system, and a new computer for Gargoyle. Sponsored by Dr. Ames, Student Council gave well-organized Uni High a good time.

CHINESE CLUB

This year's Chinese Club was headed by Robert Liu and Cynthia Chou. We celebrated the Chinese New Year, learned to cook, and had lots of fun!

Math Club met during lunch on Wednesdays to discuss problems and topics, usually brought in by Mr. McLoughlin or Mrs. Jockusch. Math Club (the math department) also organized students to participate in JETS, ICTM, and MAA competitions. J.V. math club also participated in these, preparing Subs and Frosh for the future.

This year’s Science Society members and officers were mostly Sophomores. It functioned smoothly having several guest speakers and small competitions. Under Science Society direction, Uni entered the National Science Olympiad contest for the first time.

This year's orchestra was the first at Uni for many years. Due to the inexperience of some of the younger members and limited practice time, the Uni High "Philharmonic" put together only a small repertoire. However, the group will undoubtedly continue to develop and grow in future years.

Mixed Chorus, in this harmonious season, was amazing with over sixty members—quite a few Subfreshmen finally got up the nerve to join! Mr. Murphy amused the singers with his conducting antics and lectures about getting to chorus on time (cough), and Sergio Puig occasionally provided them with his professional accompaniment. Last but certainly not least, the several performances and the infamous chorus tour were a lot of fun!

The Madrigals, made up of mostly Seniors this year, sang many performances around Christmastime as well as a few in the spring. Mrs. Kovacs made new costumes, a much needed and greatly appreciated service!
WHITE HEN PANTRY

White Hen managed again this year to take our money and feed us with nutritious (and semi-nutritious) culinary delights — homemade chocolate chip cookies with walnuts, microwave popcorn, cartons of milk, daily soup specials, super dry Italian beef sandwiches, pop tarts, crab meat salads, toffee peanuts, yogurt, cheap ice cream, and Jolt cola.

GARCIA'S

TCBY
Carol Mathews kept the files in the main office in order and gave us pieces of scotch tape.

Cheryl Epson did lots of typing and gave us paper clips when we needed them.

June Mank kept the office in motion and let us use the Xerox machine.

Russell Ames was the director of Uni and taught Subbie Survival Skills. He was very direct.
CATHY EADS did lots of the school's paperwork and let us borrow her scissors.

BARBARA GUTOWSKY handled the alumni affairs and kept Uni in touch with the adult world.

"You don't have to eat it... just put it under your napkin and don't cause a scene."

JOEL CRAMES returned to his position of Assistant Director here at Uni.

The counseling staff (Liz Wagner, Jeff Smith, Joan Levy, and Norma Elliott) helped us with our college applications and kept our heads screwed on tight.
Martha Kovacs taught Beginning Algebra to the Subs, and she also took care of the Seniors when Bob Davis was on the other side of the world.

"We just proved that zero equals three. Does that mean anything?" - Bob Davis.

"Moving right along ..." - Pat McLoughlin
Peter Shoresman taught Sub Science and Senior Science. Thousands of malpractice suits were filed against him by the outraged families of Tenebrio molitor.

“10 Newtons of force isn’t enough to shove me around.”
- Mrs. Macur

“Someone say something”
- Dr. Shoresman

David Stone taught Biology and Advanced Biology. He was single-handedly responsible for the deaths of fetal pigs and countless insects.

David Bergandine taught Chemistry and Advanced Chemistry. He did lots of exotic chemical demonstrations but didn’t cause any explosions.

Nancy Macur taught Physics and Sub Science. She tried to make everybody’s hair stand on end at least once during the year.
Joanne Wheeler fulfilled all the Juniors' nightmares with her infamous U.S. History course. She also taught European History to half the Freshmen.

Chris Butler taught Ancient History to Subs and European History to the Sophomores and the rest of the Freshmen.

Subs and Sophs learned all about Geography from Barbara Wysocki, head of the Social Studies department. In addition, she and Audrey Wells were the teachers of a unique, much publicized, first-year class entitled Social Advocacy. The class focused on poverty and other social problems in America. All of the field trips, guest speakers and volunteer work created an incredible experience for everyone in the class.
After a brief tenure at Oxford, Adele Suslick taught the Seniors all about the fine art of debating and sneakily introduced them to William Faulkner and Ernest Hemingway.

Amy Baker expanded the minds of the Sophomores and even taught them how to see fairies (which isn't easy).

Audrey Wells was the fearless leader of the English department and taught English to the Subbies.

Jennifer Van Duzen taught Freshman English, supervised Yearbook and Gargoyle staffs, and had swordfights in her classroom.

Rosemary Laughlin inundated the Juniors with word origins.
Constance Curtin taught the first two years of Russian.

Marcia Bernhard taught German 4 and organized some very classy cultural events.

Seberne Arlabosse taught the French 2 and the French 4 students how to pronounce her name.

Hiroyo Demers taught intensive Japanese and Japanese culture.

Carol Bond taught French 1 and 2 and headed the Foreign Language department with gusto.

Gera Millar taught Russian 3 and 4 and even 5.

“Ich glaube dass Wir haben Spass.”
-Andy Foland

FOREIGN LANGUAGES
Ruth Wortis, the dance instructor, intrigued everyone with her own unique brand of theatrical zaniness.

Rick Murphy couldn't keep his mouth shut during Mixed Chorus, Madrigals, Music Theory, or Orchestra.

INTEGRATED ARTS

Audrey Wells taught Drama to the Subs.

Anna Kindler rigorously taught the Subs (and other older people) how to paint.

Renee Hough kept all the books in alphabetical order.

Susan Diehl, this year's library rookie, told us to be quiet (but she was very polite about it).
Alan Ledgin coached the Girls Swim team, in addition to suffering with some of us through fitness and various sports.

Bonnie Neaville coached X-Country and Track, and kept in shape herself during a few highly enjoyable hours of P.E.
Dale rejoices over his daily harvest.

Senior Class History

Class of '87 . . . Are we there yet?

SUBFRESHMAN YEAR: We arrive weekly, ready for anything — or so we think. Classes aren’t so bad at first. We fight for front row seats in Mr. Butler’s class while he introduces us to Mambatu and uses Zoids in his lectures. Mr. Kimble tells us jokes we don’t get. Felix throws stuffed rabbits around. Mrs. Tibbets insults us. Miriam starts a big trend of lots of class parties. Eric Krock talks very fast. We invade the student lounge! Eugene and Felix get dumped 14 times. We all listen to “Mr. Robot” thousands of times and pretend not to get sick of it. Libby and Lisa begin their series of awesome Farm Parties. Julie S. and Meena become Durannies. All the girls fall in love with Steve Runkle. Rick edits Gargoyles and Libby is the “Tall Sub.” Mrs. Ruesch tells us not to say “Oh God” in Math class and tries to convert us in her “Pursuit of Happiness” course. Mrs. “Shahp” doesn’t pronounce her’s. Annie laughs at a naked guy. The Subbie commandos attack in full force during our field trip to the Oriental Institute in Chicago. (“Are these gods anthropomorphic?” “No, they’re made of clay.”) Plato seems worthwhile, and so does slow-dancing. Lark and Annie get caught hiding under a table in Latin class. Mrs. Wortis teaches us to move basically. We learn to ukelele from Mr. Pretty, a native Canadian. Rick jumps into the lake at Tony’s end-of-the-year party. Kampsvisle is a blast.

FRESHMAN YEAR: Things get a little more hazardous. We Lose Eric Stiles (what happened to him?) and Nina Wickens, but we gain Jason, Joe, Lisa P., Inna, Leah, Kathy, Maureen, Tina, Rebecca, Lee, and SHAI. Mr. Swierz says “okay” over 300 times in ONE math period and tells us to stop jacking around. Nina “the artist” Paley becomes an honorary member of our class. We visit Lee in the hospital. Mr. B’s simulation games become viciously competitive. Prasanta hurls water grenades and Eric wears face paint during Survival Games in the jungle-wilderness of Meadowbrook park. Shamit and Tony start playing AVATAR (it begins fairly innocently). Lark and Richard begin their spectacular romance. Derek and Anna follow suit. Robert joins the Yearbook staff - permanently. The Police play their farewell concert at the Assembly Hall! We go on a field trip for Biology and learn how to make pancakes over an open fire. “Here’s your spam, Auntie Sonya.” Some of us get a preview of the Dragon Lady. We have a minor conflict with people from another school (much bigger than we are) at the May Day dance. Mike finally abandons his hat. U-MAN joins x-country. Ed, Steve, Claudia and Jason display breakdancing skills at Stud parties. Lark, Courtney and Julie K. go to State track. Bryan Ho. and Albert team up and become practical jokers. Brian W.’s trampoline and treehouse on the Ridge. Tony’s party lasts all night.

SOPHOMORE YEAR: We lose Leah, Gordon, Brian Hackler, and Steve Runkle (those last two are major losses), but we gain William, who eventually talks to us. Pat tells Anna if she can ride the bus she can do Geometry. Meena goes to India. Annie goes to California. Shamit and Tony allow AVATAR to take over their social lives. Shai knows everything there is to know about basketball, chess, and women. Rick directs a politically radioactive Big Show. Agora Week doesn’t happen. Everyone falls asleep in Chemistry. Mr. King asks us what we had for breakfast. Cynthia discovers older men. Both Cross-Country teams qualify for state! Ray and Mike show up occasionally to coach soccer. Beth says “Happy Friday!” Julie S. and Inna are radical. All of the Russian III class goes to the Soviet Union during Spring break. The Guys’ Basketball team breaks their renowned losing streak. Celia and Dave Tepper. Joe and Alison.

JUNIOR YEAR: We are little bit busier than usual. We lose SHAI and gain Iris and Brian Huck — Sara Lee, Felisitas, Petri visit us for a year (what a year to pick). Gaeron goes to Mexico for a year (to return the next year as a Junior). Tina goes to Germany and Courtney goes to some school in the East. Lark goes to China for a while. Brian Huck knows more about Champaign-Urbana than we do. Halley’s Comet causes a big fuss. Our lockers are painted an ugly shade of yellow (or something) and decorated with Monday Memos. Mr. Takacs gives us a test with the question “In order to execute a good turnout, you must doa — of — in a — of —." We are forced to power walk around a track over and over again in the newly-invented Fitness Program (please get rid of it). Mr. Royer "graduates."

1-800-FARM-AID!

Rebecca works for Terry Bruce. Lisa P. and Pesotum Dave. Joe and Rick make a tape. We play Lounge Ball. Russel with his doctor's degree brings his "educated" plans to Uni. We churn out the essays for Mrs. Wheeler. Becky gets her hair cut. Kristin and Petri? Maureen edits Unique. Ed is SPIKE. Miami Vice look is "in." Beach party in the lounge! Famous people show up for the Grand Reunion. Foreign Language week. The Bears win the World Cup and Argentina wins the Superbowl. People show off their bad taste during Ugly Tie Week and Bathrobe Day. Eric works his teeth off to bring back Agora Week! Mrs. Liz Baker tells us about her graduate classes and her Coke habit and sprains her eyes instead of teaching us English. Miriam is a ditz, but we know better. The Chess team goes to Nationals. Libby is the first girl on the Chess team. We get sixteen pages of a Yearbook from Alabama (instead of our own). Soccer goes 4-3 without a coach (unless you count Claudio). We discover new and exciting ways to use balloons. Brian Huck makes an eighteen-foot-long paper chain. Kristin wins big bucks for writing about rock videos. Joe and Rick play their music (now available on cassette) at the Red Herring. William edits Gargoyle . Shamit, Celia, Eugene, and Brian Huck capsize a canoe in Tony's treacherous lake. Lark and Dave Teitelbaum, Jason and Marianne (no kissing in the lounge). Mrs. Feeney gets married. Mrs. Wheeler fixes up the rest of us for Prom. "Joe WHO?"

SENIOR YEAR: We lose Albert and Greg goes to the "Big U." We all have attitude problems. Eugene's "box" becomes the lounge sound system. The administration has a ten year plan for Uni (or at least a laboratory mission). We take University courses. Marc gets in trouble with the LAW. Lee cuts his hair. Mike McCollum leaves. Soccer goes Varsity. "Would you like to buy a raffle ticket?" The Lounge wall becomes the Wall of Truth, but it is deemed offensive and painted over (the truth hurts doesn't it). Debate topics in the Tropics. We have big parties in the Undergrad library — Tony gets a sixty dollar library bill. Iris becomes a well-rounded athlete. Rick rocks against sex. Eugene is hailed as the Teen Green Thumb of the community. Senior Timepiece Exchange. Tony wheels and deals as our venerable class president (he certainly knows how to delegate responsibility). We perform experimental theatre with Jeff Glassman — Prasanta becomes the patron saint of stage-lighting. Lounge Ball is reinvented. Lounge Basketball is invented. Mr. Stone helps us dissect fetal pigs. We hold an all-day jam session in the lounge. Jason and Ed wear combat boots — Ed wins the "Dress-Like-Ed" contest. Bonnie kicks us out of Fitness. We all get sore throats so we can't go swimming in Kenney pool. Kenney field is symbolically torn apart to make room for the Beckman science institute. "Sha-M.I.T. Caltech-shru" and Celia. Kathy and Marc. Lazer Tag in the halls. The whole school has to take a Consumer Education test, and we learn why we should rent apartments instead of buying houses (and that Vanna White is really a vegetable). We put up a Christmas tree in the lounge. We become social activists in Social Advocacy and learn about Japanese culture. We have a Friday Forum. Tina turns 18 and the whole world turns with her. Agora Week is actually only Agora Days. Sharon already knows everything in Advanced Biology. Steve, Claudio and Dave move into the darkroom. Kim and Kathleen lead X-country to state, AGAIN. Ed gets a mohawk. Kathy joins a band. Han Paik is our pet subbie. Tom Scott asks us what "pride" means to us. Peter Gabriel plays at the Assembly Hall. BIG TIME.

I, Meena Balgopal, leave my confusiusness to Angi the Wonder, lots of arthropods to "Dr." Stone, lots of vectors to Pat, lots of wars to Mrs. Wheeler, and the best of luck to Tasha, Yamini, Marcia, Stephie, Dan J., and Marianne C.

I, Prasanta Bhowmik, leave my incredible slide-tackling skills, agility, and speed to Micah Yairi and something insignificant to my brother.

I, Rick Burkhardt, leave my impressive sports record to my brother Fritz, in the hope that he can somehow better it, and my bootleg Talking Heads tapes to Andrew. Everything else goes into a blind trust, to be distributed to my constituents by Andy Foland. Youngmoo can stomp on the floor if things get too out of hand.

I, Michael Chang, leave what's left of my hair to Fritz Burkhardt, and my driving abilities to Mark Paci.

Tony Chen: Sorry, all my stuff was stolen.

I, Cynthia Chou, leave an MTD Bus schedule to Jeff Denen, all my love and best wishes to Beffie Remper, an A-flat to Fluffy, Peter Pan's advice — don't grow up — to "chums forever" Angi Wong, and a week off to Mrs. Mank, who has helped me out so much.

I, Kimberly Clausing, leave a grand "adventure" to Michay Brown, a song for the next time she's stuck in the rain to Tamar Shapiro, and good wishes and a hug to Marion Knight.

I, Miriam Davidson, leave a birthday present to Steffie, a survival package which I got from Robin Van Es which she got from Becky Davidson and Pieter Van Es to Tasha Van Es, a watch to Ellen Knight, and a hug to Emily.

I, Sharon Dornhoff, leave my unsound mind to my sister, the demon sword Fluffbringer to the Lizard, insults to select lower-classmen, and my best wishes to the Geist.

I, Steve Findley, hereby leave 10 minutes of random dribbling to Mark Paci, a real, genuine smile to Murph, and something to Micah.

I, Anna Friedman, leave my sincerest thanks to Mr. Pat for all his tutelage and friendship, and much gratitude to the science teachers for their patience.

I, Joe Futrelle, leave my musical taste to Fritz Burkhardt, my appealing shyness to Jimmy Lyng, and my attitude problems to all the senior classes to come.

I, Annie Getis, leave my German enthusiasm to the next German IV class who sure will need something to keep them going and to anyone who has enough taste, I donate my classic locker pictures.

I, William Gillespie, hereby leave Todd Nelson my drivers' license and some sedatives, Jumpin' Jeff Stillman the executive lounge chair, and Pete my lunch. And I leave subbie Dave a big stick to defend himself with.

I, Claudio Gratton, leave my soccer abilities to Fabio and my best wishes to the yearbook staff and the awesome varsity team.

I, Dave Han, leave a six pack of Jolt to Pat, my vicious slide-tackle to Micah, a full deck of cards to Angi Wong, my two pages of Bedford notes to my sister, and 25 cents to Andy Foland.

I, Kathy Harmon, leave Peter happiness, Angi thanks for helping me with my chemistry and for her constant friendship, and Kanchan can have all the moldy things I find in my locker at the end of the year.

I, Bryan Holloway, will my amazing ability to win at 'pitch' to Paul Dickinson, my amazing Pascal programming skills to Angi, and my amazing knowledge of chess opening names and luck to the Chess Team 87-88.

I, Lark Huang, leave my enthusiasm for fitness to Peter Wen, my "history helpers" to Tysie, much respect and luck to Todd Nelson and Stephie Kovacs, and best wishes of song, fervor, zeal, passion, fun, and fireworks to all of Uni High.

I, Lee Imrey, leave Paul Talbot three phone numbers, for Thunder Fist, Carpet-Lover, and Pond Scum, along with my shades and memories.

I, Julie Kimmel, leave my thanks to Pat for all of his patience, and my best wishes to the Girls b-ball team, especially Marsha and Sylvia.
I, Eric Krock, leave the Agora Week Chairmanship (and my sympathy) to Beth Rempe, several bag lunches to Micah, Art Patten’s sixer to Joel Ullom the party animal, my conservative views to anyone worthy of them, my Madonna records to Melina, my slick moves to next year’s chess team, my profound gratitude and friendship to Mr. B, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Worlis for all they’ve done for me, and a hug to all of you for these happy, intense, wonderful years.

I, Iris Kurman, leave an Academy Award to my sister Lulu and a successful year to the swim team.

I, Kathleen Dori Liu, leave the cookies in my locker in Pennsylvania (which are probably stale by now) to Marion, Michay, and Tamar. To Ellen W., Pari, and Kie, I leave a package of OREO cookies. To Paul T., because he wants something, I leave my ability to have strange dreams about anything or anyone. To cross-country and track teams of the future, I leave my best wishes for future success. Finally, to all of my teachers, I leave all my gratitude.

I, Robert Liu, leave my best wishes to Andrew, my pent up frustrations to Sylvia, several juicy rumors to J. Wheeler, and my prematurely greying hair to JVD and the next yearbook editor(s).

I, Maureen McCord, leave Unique to SteFi (deliberately misspelled name there) Kovacs and Naomi Parkhurst, my maturity to the Sophomores of my Russian III class (they need it), my basketball nickname “Hacksaw” to Zivar, my GO NAVY! sticker to Meredith, my amazing ability to always annoy Sally to Pari, my (never before used) basketball shoes to Heather Garrett, and to Mr. Pat, an only child, I generously leave my brother David so he won’t be lonely anymore.

I, Libby Mericke, leave my sympathy to all the munchkins, best of luck to my sister Meg, and a smile to Yams.

I, Felix S. Ortony, leave little footprints in the sand when I walk along the beach.

I, Eugene Peppers, will my incredible running ability to Matt Seitz, my goofy running style to Paul Talbot, my singing talent to Fabio Gratton and Alec Reisner, and my carefree nature to Micah Yairi.

I, Celia Rothenberg, leave my thanks to Pat for all his extra help, all my pleasant memories of Latin to Mr. Butler, and best wishes to all future seniors.

I, Tina Schoeneweiss, leave my affection for Uni in every classroom and every corner and all the unstudied for history quizzes to Amanda Young.

I, Beth Schomer, leave a 1-2-3 BOO and a fethtival of running to Tamar Shapiro, a private “toi” at Kenney Gym to merry Mary Harkness, who is always in need of one, my insect-killing jar to Sarah Bright, and best wishes to all of Uni High.

I, Kristin Seibold, leave my shoulders to Mary K. Mulally, and the bug collection (left to me by Elizabeth Jockusch) to Rebecca Jockusch, in hopes that she will someday pass it to Lulu Kurman, to whom I leave a big hug, and to Sarah Bright, I leave a calculator battery.

I, Inna Shapovalov, am not going to leave anything to anyone, but you can ask me nicely and maybe you’ll get something.

I, Julie Swadener, leave my Duran-Duran t-shirt to Veerle, my ability to keep my hands to myself to Jimmy, my heavy metal tapes to the class of ’88, lots of luck to Melina and Lisa M., and my everlasting friendship to Angi Wong.

I, Marc Talbot, leave my copy of The Anarchist Cookbook to Mrs. Wheeler, my pipe and the bad habits that come with it to Will Capel, and the best of luck to my little brother.

I, Rebecca Truelove, finally leave Mr. Norcott a quiet hall. To Sylvia and Lulu, I leave the love and admiration that such fantastic people deserve, plus a set of quintuplets to Sylvia and Mary K. And lastly, but she knows not leastly, to Emily (and her BMW from Howard), I leave my drivers’ license, memories of the fun we had, and lots of love.

I, Brian Whetten, leave a lifetime supply of junk food to Micah, so he won’t have to ask for anyone else’s again. To Fritz, I leave $1,000,000. To Kanchan, I leave all my bad jokes. To everyone else, I leave all my grody top 40 singles for the jukebox.

I, Jason Whitmarsh, leave a coke to Emily, all my luck to the Haiku club, and all my love to Marianne. And some Flintstone vitamins for Micah.

Beatlemania lives on.
7:30 Friday Night, February 27th. The very day on which I was born 17 years ago. I have just returned from a bizarre ordeal at Papa Dels ("this is a what?"). Directly before that I was presented with a microphone stand by the rest of the Cool Monks. Directly before that my hair was moused to make me look like a Conservative from the late fifties, and I was treated to a bouquet of balloons and a creative bellydance by a hired woman who called me "master Rick" and herself, "Sheba." I'm starting to feel justifiably paranoid. No, the word is overwhelmed. And it keeps occurring to me that I did lots more work on Yearbook back before I was an Editor. And I have this sound going through my head, and it sounds like AIEYAUGHIEEE (with a couple of additional strains from "Tutti Frutti"). It's only 7:30. That's the really weird part. Special thanks to Youngmoo, Lisa, and Prasanta. Love, Rick.

After "yearbooking" for four years and working with lots of people and lots of creative ideas, I've really had tons of fun. I have truly enjoyed working with all of the yearbook staff who put in a great deal of time and commitment, and the yearbook advisors (Feeney to Eastley to JVD) who helped us keep our sanity. Even though the photographers have been tough to cooperate with at times, they (Paul, Jonny, Andrew, Steve and Claudio) have always been an important part of the staff. I'd sincerely like to thank Robert (Mr. Lui) for yearbook would never have even existed without his dedication throughout the years. This year there were four editors who all contributed different interesting ideas and , in my opinion, this year's yearbook is one of Uni's best. I hope future yearbooks are as much fun to work on as these last four books were. — Meena.

Well, I think that I will concentrate on controversies and quotes from this year. First, some of the controversial quotes that this conservative school could not put in its conservative yearbook:

- "We the Class of '87 respectfully dedicate this yearbook to "CENSORED"... just kidding."
- "The girls' swim team is like a teddy bear." — Tony C. Chen
- "They are a bunch of boudy babes and lusty losses." — Shamit
- "I was the mascot." — Rick
- "We may not win, and we sure aren't smart." — NOT Eugene
- "I have a lot more respect for the team after you-know-who left." (Hint: not a student)

As for controversies, there was the debate over mosaic vs. non-mosaic style, runelines, color, etc. big arguments over Blue and Orange on the Senior picture page; pictures of people snorting "CENSORED" in the lounge ("That picture is banned" — JVD); categories in the Senior Class Ballot (I would have won "Laziest" which would not have bothered me); even bigger controversy over the Senior Class History ("we let a group of mankeys randomly typing at a typewriter revise it"); my radical geometrical layout page which is in a diluted form on the last page; 4000++ negatives by photographers but no prints; too many pictures of my brother and the revealing photo of Micah; and people threatening to sue us. OH YEAH, I was great (I had to say something about me) and "it was one of life's true, but ephemeral joys." Good luck to JVD next year. — Prasanto.
This was a particularly eventful year for the photo department. Handled by a handful of “peons” (such as Tom “Freelance” Choy, Eugene “The Presumptuous” Peppers, Sylvia “Printmaker” Knust, and Rebecca “Slowpoke” Jockusch) the two photographer editors, Steve Findley and Claudio Gratton, faced many hard times. Long, tense hours were spent in the darkroom making world-class prints. Yet temps flared and chairs flew. Nevertheless, amidst this chaos, characterized by a safe-light-lit room full of toxic chemical fumes capable of making an elephant nauseous, the film was developed, the prints were made and, in short, the job was done. Special acknowledgement should be made to David Ghent, a good friend of ours from the Daily Illini who pulled us out of a potentially damaging situation by taking most of the X-Country photos. Also, a special thanks to Brian K. Johnson of the News Gazette for his assistance in taking the title page photo. — Claudio and Steve.

People who know me know that I really hate the question, “How’s the yearbook coming along?” I swear, I must hear that a hundred times a year, and the people who ask it usually don’t even care far the long, detailed answer in the first place; they just want to make conversation. Well, this year, a second question annoys me to no end: “Who will be editor next year?” True, these people aren’t just making small talk, but they are being nosy. For one thing, it’s nothing but a decision one should be able to make without even thinking about it. So, my advice is simply to be fair, optimistic, and persevering because you have a job to accomplish. That may sound awfully sappy, but rest assured, it’s true.

Finally, for everyone who asked, the yearbook has really come along well despite all of its problems. And that’s why I’m certain that if next year’s editor(s) continue in this “tradition” (sorry Rick), the yearbook can only get better. Goodbye and good luck, Robert.

We are meeting for the last time (the last third time in a week, actually) and it’s time once again to look back on the year and reminisce. So, here we go:

JVD joins the staff enthusiastically at first, learns about technicappers, experiences her admiration of Led Zeppelin, is abused by other teachers (and consequently makes up an imaginary form apology letter) and dreads the pile of almost-done mud paks by the end of the year.

- A bizarre 3 to 1 ratio exists among the editors’ traits: 3 Asians, 1 WASP, 3 males, 1 female; 3 short, 1 tall; from Yankee Ridge, 1 from Leal (but all from Urbana); and 3 pianists, 1 violinist.
- Of the editors, we don’t forget: Meena’s violin and dance lessons, as well as her attempt at breaking the window, Robert’s Jetta, Rick’s leap into the Boneyard, Prasanta’s quotes, these two’s first quad pak signatures, and the climb to touch UNI ceiling.
- Everyone complains about not working on the yearbook, so half the staff joins in the last two months.
- No one wants to write captions, but everyone writes, loses, rewrites, and finds basketball copy.
- No one reveals a desire to be editor, but everyone asks “who will be the editor next year?”

The staff counts three half ton boxes (which lasted the entire year) from house to house, room to room, since no permanent home was ever found for the migrant committee (hopes for securing room 214, 110, and the third floor of the Math building were all dashed by the efforts of an indecisive administration); and as a result, the staff gets to work in the English office, Robert’s house, Rick’s house, Rick’s third floor apartment, Room 106N, the HALLWAY (and the lounge when it wasn’t locked with our coats in it), and room 109 (these last two being subject to our infamous chair pranks).

And from the other photographers . . .

A few words about working the Photo department this year:
- Staying up until midnight making prints and still having Robert say “MORE . . . MORE!”
- Trying to find negatives in the disorganized pile cluttering up the darkroom.
- Going 6005 over budget because “Well, the money’s spent, now it’s THEIR Problem” (Actually, it’s Steve’s mom’s PROBLEM now — Editors).
- Tempers barely under control and the invention of a new Olympic event — the chair toss.
- Playing the box at 150dB and annoying the Science faculty.
- Steve “let’s go shoot more pictures of Lark and Kim” Findley and Claudio “In SWIMSUITS” Gratton show us “peons” how to speak “Darkroom Language.”

We owe the following people many thanks: Mrs. Manik and the office staff for their tolerance, book (and check) keeping, and office supplies; Beth, honorary finance editor, for her dedication to advertising and patrons; Rick Murphy for his supportive “Is this yearbook?” visits; Larry Kanfer for his patience and photographic expertise over the years; JVD for letting us call her JVD; and, of course, Anthony C. Chen for his enlightenment!
