UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS
FOREWORD.....

We of the Senior Class of 1947 differ from other classes in both a tragic and a happy sense: we have been in college through war and through peace. Many of us have helped pave the road to victory on the battlefield, and all of us still face the task of helping to find the pathway to an enduring peace.

We have given some of our youth and we are glad that we could; but we realize the value of our gift and we soberly know that our discomforts and pain and grief must have a good and permanent result. We want our efforts to aid in constructing a new world for our children which is finer and kinder and more free.

We are determined to become not only the thinking men and women but the acting men and women of tomorrow. We face our changing world with sincerest faith and high resolve.

TO THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Through this page of The Illio it is my great privilege to extend greetings to every member of the vast Illini family.

How we have grown! Once more the men predominate, and especially the men just out of uniform. There are 11,000 veterans on the Urbana campus alone! The total enrollment for the year, including students of the undergraduate divisions at Chicago and Galesburg, is expected to reach 26,000. Three thousand additional college freshmen are “farmed out” to numerous high schools under the supervision of the Extension Division. In this way the University of Illinois is fulfilling the promise of the Board of Trustees and of the leaders in government that the youth of the State will be given a full educational opportunity.

Needless to say, acute shortages prevail. Staff and student housing will be a problem for some time, while the provision of permanent facilities for residence, instruction, research, and assembly will for a decade demand a high priority.

Less conspicuous but more meaningful to the individual student is the sincere attempt of every staff member to maintain a high quality of instruction and guidance. We recognize in the return to college of mature veterans and war workers an expression of faith in learning unparalleled in American history.

In memory of the 20,000 Illini who served in the armed forces, and of the gallant company who gave their lives, let us renew our pledge of loyalty and service to University, State and Nation.

THE DEANS

The major duty of the Offices of the Deans is to counsel individual students in regard to personal problems, especially those outside of the academic field. Each student has the opportunity to see the Deans at any time for friendly advice on any phase of university life, including social, scholastic, and financial problems.

Dean of Students, Fred H. Turner, stands at the head of Dean's activities. Work pertaining to campus events, social affairs, fraternities, extra-curricular activities, organizations, and employment are among the many concerns of his office. Dean Turner has been associated with the Dean's office since 1922 when he was graduated from the University of Illinois and became an assistant Dean of Men. In 1932 he was awarded the full title of Dean of Men and more recently the title of Dean of Students. Dean Turner is nationally known for his authoritative doctoral thesis on the Illinois Industrial University, for his surveys of student life which have been published in current magazines, and as a popular speaker on student life. He is very interested in student organizations on the campus and is a member of the Illini Board of Control. On a national scope Dean Turner works actively on the Educational Advisory Committee of the Interfraternity Conference and is secretary of the National Association of Deans and Advisers.

This year Mrs. Leah Trelease has taken the active position of Dean of Women after serving as Acting Dean of Women last year. However, her popularity here on campus had its beginning before this time since she previously taught English courses at the University. In a short time Dean Trelease has won the admiration of all the coeds at Illinois by her straight forward sincerity, her sense of humor, charm, and understanding. Her concern for the welfare of women students is shown in her interest in housing, scholarship, and special activities.

Edward E. Stafford has been Dean of Men since 1944. His job has reached a tremendous height with the arrival of thousands of veterans on campus this year, but in spite of the rush at his office he is always ready to see students and places the welfare of all men students as his foremost concern. His success and popularity as Dean of Men can be attributed to his wide experience with university life and students and his genuine interest in each individual student.

LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offers instructions in the humanities, the social sciences, and the natural sciences, leading to the degrees of bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, bachelor of science in chemistry and chemical engineering and in home economics. In addition, it offers the necessary work preparatory to medicine, law, journalism, education, social welfare administration and occupational therapy.

Liberal Arts and Sciences, the largest of all colleges, attained its present status in 1913, when the College of Literature and Arts and the College of Sciences were combined.

The College is organized with a dean, one associate dean, and three assistant deans. The chief function of the associate and assistant deans is to give personal counseling to students on educational and scholastic problems.

The Division of General Studies with a curriculum built around non-departmental courses is designed specifically for students seeking a general education.

Mathew T. McClure has been dean since 1934.
The curricula in Engineering are planned to give a thorough training in mathematics and the physical sciences which are applied in design and construction of engineering structures and machines and in industrial operation. A moderate degree of specialization is provided by curricula and options and also by special arrangement of courses in the senior year.

The Engineering Experiment Station, organized in 1903, was the first in any engineering college in this country. More than 400 bulletins and circulars recording the results of investigations in almost every field of engineering have been published and are to be found in libraries in all parts of the world. The Station is engaged in many investigations in cooperation with engineering societies, trade associations, governmental agencies including army, navy and air forces, and with industry.

Since 1934, Melvin L. Enger has been Dean of the College of Engineering, which this year is meeting unprecedented demands. The enrollment in engineering this year is more than twice any previous registration, and will tax facilities severely until the projected building for electrical and mechanical engineering is completed.
The College of Education believing that "only an enlightened people can be free" has as its purpose the instruction of those who will teach our children the ideals and fundamentals of the American way of life.

The College offers, on the undergraduate level, professional preparation for high school teachers. On the graduate level, it offers advanced professional preparation for elementary and high school teachers, supervisors and principals and superintendents of schools, and prepares faculty members to teach and carry on research in education. It includes the University High School which is utilized for demonstration, observation, research, and student teaching. Through the Bureau of Educational Research it provides various services to the schools of the State.

The College of Education had its origin in 1893 under the influence and teaching of Charles de Garmo, Professor of Psychology. In 1900, a Department of Education was set up, which became in 1907, the School of Education and in 1918 received its present title the College of Education. The present dean of the College, Walter S. Monroe, has been dean since 1945.
Democracy is founded in justice, and freedom is rooted in law. Liberty and justice complement each other; neither can exist without the other, and neither is likely to exist in a country that does not have a highly trained bar. The College of Law seeks to develop in its students an appreciation of the highest ideals of the profession, a facility in legal scholarship, and a consciousness of the responsibility of the lawyer to society. It takes pride in the contribution it has made, through its faculty and graduates, to the development of law and its administration.

The College of Law was established in 1897, guided by Dr. Andrew S. Dooper, President of the University and first dean of the College, and the Honorable John D. Altgeld, governor of Illinois. The building that houses the College is named Altgeld Hall in honor of Governor Altgeld and in memory of his interests in the College.

Albert James Harno has been Dean of the College of Law since 1922. He has been a leader in movements for the advancement of standards of legal education.
The School of Journalism is a professional school offering training for jobs in the communications industry, and in industry whose media of newspapers, magazines, radio, movies, and books must help develop a world of understanding and trust as the best insurance against further conflict. The task of directing those media during responsible days ahead will be the task of today’s journalism graduate.

Journalism instruction at Illinois is 45 years old and the School is in its 20th year. During those years the School has been proud of the distinguished men who have served on its faculty and it has become proud of the 953 alumni, many of whom have made responsible places for themselves in important communications work.

Today the School offers training in radio, journalism, advertising, publication management, editorial work, and has a graduate program leading to the degree of Master of Science in Journalism. It has one of the most complete journalism libraries in the United States and offers news photography training in the most modern photographic laboratories developed in any school of journalism. With these aids the communications student learns that freedom is more than a word.
The department designated as Courses for Training in Business initiated in 1902 and its successor The College of Commerce and Business Administration organized in 1915 have had for the period of forty-five years the main objective of training young people for positions of responsibility in commercial, industrial, governmental, and financial institutions and in professions allied therewith such as the certified public accountant.

In the current academic year the college, in common with most of the others on the campus, has had its largest enrollment (over 2500). In addition to those enrolled in commerce, about one-half of whom are veterans, the college welcomes several hundred others who are registered in its various courses but who are enrolled as members of the Division of Special Services for War Veterans.

In the emergency which requires the largest teaching staff the college has ever had, it was fortunately possible to keep the already effective teaching staff and to acquire the services of an exceptionally well prepared additional staff. The staff members cooperate with the placement bureau of the college in trying to obtain for all graduates positions which will appeal to them and will harmonize with their college preparation.
PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The School of Physical Education includes two departments: the Department of Physical Education for Men and the Department of Physical Education for Women. The current professional enrollment of 550 undergraduate students plus approximately 65 graduate students is the largest in the School's history.

The School offers professional work in several allied fields, namely, teaching physical education, health, and safety, coaching athletics, and directing recreation. The School also conducts a service program in physical education and a program in recreational sports for the general student body.

In addition to the programs mentioned above which are carried on the campus at Urbana, the School administers programs at the Chicago Professional Colleges, Navy Pier, and Galesburg.

Because of the excellence of its staff and the unusually fine facilities, equipment, and programs provided, the School is commonly recognized as being one of the best in the country. One of the School's more distinctive features is its Physical Fitness Laboratory. Created during the war, the Laboratory is now being used to carry on a broad program of research in the areas of motor and organic fitness, and for the purpose of giving diagnostic fitness tests to students and faculty members.
The Division of University Extension has the responsibility of extending the educational resources and services of the University, other than those provided by the Extension Services in Agriculture and Home Economics, to all interested persons who are not enrolled for study in residence. This is done by a variety of educational means: extramural classes, courses taught by correspondence, short courses, conferences, institutes, workshops, and lecture series.

The student body of the Division is found all over the world, and in a wide range of occupations. Some of the programs of the Division carry college credit courses and some will permit the student to earn credit in the Graduate School.

The Summer Session has become a major enterprise since the University undertook year-round operation. Approximately 8,000 students were enrolled in the 1946 Summer Session, the majority of whom were students in the University during the regular semesters and were in the accelerated program of the University. Besides these students, the Summer Session provides opportunities for the teachers and librarians who come to the campus for further study.
In its residence teaching, research, and extension, the College of Agriculture has three major goals: to improve the quality of the products grown on Illinois farms and the efficiency of their production; to advance the welfare of those engaged in agriculture and its many allied industries; and to bring about a better understanding of the place of agriculture in our national and world economy.

A wide range of courses dealing with the production, marketing, processing, and utilization of food and clothing materials is offered. A new curriculum is being established in the rapidly developing field of food technology.

The teachings of the College are vitalized by the work of the Experiment Station, with its hundreds of projects designed to test new practices and develop new knowledge; and by the close contact which members of the staff have with the people of the State through its well developed and active Extension Service.

Henry P. Rusk, dean since 1939, is the spokesman of the Illinois farmer through the college.
The College of Fine and Applied Arts has rapidly adjusted itself to postwar conditions, enrolling this year in excess of 1300 professional students plus several hundred others who have come in from other colleges of the University to pursue one or more courses. Established in 1931 by a regrouping of the Departments of Art, Architecture and Landscape Architecture, and the School of Music, the College offers twelve professional curricula leading to appropriate degrees. Graduates of the College hold important places in their respective professions throughout the nation and abroad.

In addition to its instructional program the College offers annually free public lectures on various phases of the arts, concerts, recitals and a constantly changing series of art exhibits in the galleries in the Architecture Building.

Rexford Newcomb, Dean of the College since 1932, heads a faculty of ninety-six full-time teaching staff members.
The University Library, through the General Library and its branches, provides books needed by students for class reports, theses, and general readings, and books, journals, and other publications to aid faculty members in their research activities. The Browsing Rooms, in the General Library and Illini Union, for recreational reading, are popular with the undergraduates. The Library contains over two million volumes, a collection increasing at the rate of more than 50,000 books each year. Three off-campus divisions of the Library serve the Chicago professional colleges, and the undergraduate colleges at Galesburg and Navy Pier.

The Library School, a professional school for the training of librarians, requires college graduation for admission. Established in 1893, it is the oldest library school west of the Alleghenies. From the beginning it has ranked as one of the outstanding library schools in America. The curriculum leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Library Science after one year of study, and to the degree of Master of Science after two years of study.

Robert B. Downs has been director of the Library and Library School since 1943.
The principal aim of graduate study is the development of the power and the promotion of the spirit of investigation. The student who pursues an extended course is expected to obtain a wide knowledge of his subject and of related fields of investigation, and also to acquire and begin to use the power of extending the range of what is known.

Scholarships and fellowships, established by the University Board of Trustees, are open to graduate students of exceptional ability and promise. Funds are available from several special sources for the support of additional fellowships, the purpose of which is to promote higher education and to contribute to the extension and diffusion of knowledge. Several important individual research programs are encouraged and helped forward by the aid of the resources which have been made available through the Graduate School and the Research Board. Some of these are of very great value in the social process.

Robert D. Carmichael has been Dean of the School since 1934.
The Division of Special Services for War Veterans, which has been established by the faculty and the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, is the University's answer to the specific question, "What can we do to be of greatest service to veterans who wish to come to the University of Illinois?" It is a pioneering educational venture, breaking traditional educational policies, and allowing for an educational freedom which will best serve the needs of individual students.

The Division offers veterans an opportunity to reorient themselves academically through refresher work, reduced programs, and selection of courses; to move directly toward an educational objective by adding appropriate subjects to previously acquired credit; to attain an educational objective which involves subject matter offered in several colleges. Accordingly the Division administers the educational programs of veterans whose special needs are not met by existing curricula, and can certify such students for the Bachelor of Science degree.

One office of the Division handles veterans' claims for subsistence and tuition; another office conducts a service program for married veterans. In addition, the Division acts as a clearing house for claims, gripes, personal matters, and the usual problems which come to a dean's office.
Training of students for the practice of veterinary medicine and for positions of responsibility in other fields of veterinary service and public health is one of the chief aims of the fledgling College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Illinois.

Although students probably will not be admitted to the college until the fall semester of 1948, according to Dean Robert Graham, many are now taking pre-veterinary work at the U. of I. The tentative curriculum provides for a minimum of two years in pre-veterinary instruction and four years of professional training.

The first two years in the professional veterinary curriculum will be devoted largely to basic veterinary subjects, including anatomy, physiology, bacteriology, parasitology, pharmacology and pathology, while the last two years of the professional curriculum will consist of instruction in clinical subjects such as medicine, surgery or obstetrics. In keeping with modern trends in veterinary education, approximately two-thirds of the instruction in the senior year will be in clinical and laboratory practice in connection with the hospital and ambulatory clinics. Here, the student will apply the knowledge gained in classroom and laboratory in the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of animal diseases.

This new college will be closely affiliated with the Agricultural Experiment Station in research and with the Agricultural Extension Service in extension work.

The Chicago Undergraduate Division of the University of Illinois was established at Navy Pier as part of the program of the State to meet its share of the national emergency in higher education, resulting from the overwhelmingly increased demand for instruction at the University level.

A city amusement center converted into a Navy Training School during the wartime emergency, Chicago’s familiar landmark—Navy Pier—now houses educational facilities for 4,000 freshmen and sophomores. We are proud that this new division could be established to provide educational opportunities for this additional number of students, both veterans and non-veterans, in the Chicago area.

Courses at the freshman and sophomore levels are offered in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the College of Commerce, and the College of Engineering, including courses in Architecture.

The new Undergraduate Division in Chicago, through its educational, social, and cultural program, will strive to provide its student body with the same fine opportunities for development which have been so long a part of the University’s tradition.

Charles C. Caveny
Dean
Although lacking the familiar elm-bordered Broadwalk in Urbana, students on the unique water-bound campus at the Chicago Undergraduate Division at Navy Pier nevertheless share the traditions of the University of Illinois.

Through Dean Wolleson's office pass all matters dealing with student welfare—health service, physical education, student committees and organizations, and social functions.

Navy Pier's Dean of Women, Miss Leitch, acts not only as a counsellor to freshman and sophomore women, but is also director of social and cultural activities.

Dean Brown, in his dual capacity as Acting Dean of Men and Director of the Division of Special Services for War Veterans, has as his special responsibility both veteran and non-veteran men students—over 85 per cent of the Pier's enrollment.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offers work at the freshman and sophomore level in eighteen of the twenty-three areas offered at Urbana.

The course offerings include required work in pre-medicine, pre-dentistry, chemistry curriculum and chemical engineering, as well as the more general work in pre-law, pre-journalism, and the teacher training curricula.

The first two years of study in the College of Commerce correspond exactly with that work offered in the lower division at Urbana.

The College of Engineering is meeting the heavy postwar demand for technical education by offering the first two years of training in Aeronautical, Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, and other Engineering curricula, as well as curricula in Architecture and Architectural Engineering.

To University of Illinois students:

From wherever you have come, veteran or civilian, man or woman, greetings. Here we are together sharing our experience in the unique University of Illinois, the Galesburg Division, proposed, created, and put into operation in less than thirty days. With your continued cooperation, ingenuity, devotion, and loyalty we will make this a pleasurable, profitable, educational experience, setting the proper standards and patterns for those to come next year. The academic procedures have been determined for us at Urbana—but we welcome your constructive suggestions for innovations that will make possible the most harmonious relations as we live together in this, the best equipped supplementary educational facilities in the United States in the year of 1946-47.

Your spirit, your assistance, your interest, your ability, your leadership have contributed greatly to make this year a happy one for all of us, students and staff.

With best wishes to all of you for always.

Sincerely yours,

Frederic R. Hamilton
Dean
LIFE AT GALESBURG
The University of Illinois Colleges of Dentistry, Medicine, and Pharmacy, its Research and Educational Hospitals (The General Hospital, The Eye and Ear Infirmary, and The Surgical Institute for Children), and its affiliated institutions (The Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute, The Institute for Juvenile Research, and Rush-Presbyterian Hospital) form a vital part of the growing Medical Center on Chicago's near west side.

The University's clinic serves an average of 350 outpatients daily; its hospital beds will be increased from 503 to 723 by a new $6,300,000 hospital addition already started; its professional colleges accommodate 1,500 students; its postgraduate program offers training in a dozen specialized fields; its graduate program offers training leading to advanced degrees in every department in the College of Medicine and in several specialties in the Colleges of Dentistry and Pharmacy; its curriculum includes specialist training for nurses, occupational therapists, and medical illustrators.

This wide teaching and treatment program serves the student, the veteran, the citizen, and humanity in many fields and in many ways. Quite as valuable to all of these is the ever-expanding research program which seeks to find the causes and to prevent the occurrence of diseases which afflict man and lessen his contribution to society. Research must be the watchword in the steady advance of the healing arts.

The Chicago Illini Union during the past five years has grown into the center of all student and faculty activities. Policies are set by the Chicago Illini Union Board which consists of three faculty members and three students (one from each college respectively). All activities are planned by the three student committees—Social, Music, and Exhibit. The members of these committees are selected from the petitions of application which they voluntarily submit. The success of the Union Building activity programs which have become more and more popular each year is directly due to the planning and initiative of these student committees.

With the end of the war and the discontinuance of the accelerated program the College of Dentistry expected a considerable reduction in applications. Many applicants with higher scholastic records than in any previous year, however, permitted the admission of a full class of seventy, having a class scholastic average above 3.5. A large proportion were attracted to dentistry through their experience while acting as assistants to dentists in the service. Applications for the next two years indicate a continuance of this interesting situation in view of the great need for dentists.

Demand for postgraduate courses on the part of dentists who have been in the service has led the College of Dentistry to offer courses extending through a period of three months to two different groups since the first of May. Another is scheduled to start the first of January.

Ten men selected from 400 applicants entered the graduate courses in orthodontia in September. Others are enrolled for advanced courses in pedodontia, histology and therapeutics.

Dr. Allan Gibson Brodie was born in New York City in 1897, and received his D.D.S. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1919. He studied at the Angle College of Orthodontia in Pasadena, and joined the faculty of the University of Illinois in 1929. Dr. Brodie received his Master’s degree in 1934, and became head of the Department of Orthodontia in 1936. He received his doctorate in anatomy in 1940. He was appointed Acting Dean of the College of Dentistry on September 1, 1944.

Observing

Cleanliness Above All
During the school year the Dental Student Council meets on an average of once monthly to integrate student-faculty relationships with the aim of smoother organization and management of the school of Dentistry. Some of the problems of the student are advanced, including new additions to equipment and all phases of education from the student viewpoint, and once quarterly the council meets with the dean to discuss these problems with relationship to both student and faculty ideas. As a result both sides of individual problems are attacked with a resulting solution and consequent alteration to meet the problems.
Delta Sigma Delta is a Professional Fraternity organized in 1882 for the benefit of member dental students. Its membership is restricted to students and practitioners who keep high standards of scholarship and strive toward scientific, ethical and professional progress.

Rho Chapter of the “Delts” has a full social calendar which includes the famous “Hobo” dance, the Senior Farewell dinner-dance, frequent house parties, and cooperates with the Illini Union in various social functions.
The object of Psi Omega includes: cultivating the social qualities of its members; giving assistance, advice and advantages out of individual reach; keeping in touch with its members through an international journal, and exerting its influence toward the advancement of the dental profession.

Highlights in the social calendar are: the rushing, pledge, initiation, tri chapter, and senior farewell dances; numerous house parties; and faculty luncheons and smokers.
Alpha Omega, a dental social fraternity, was organized at the University of Pennsylvania in 1910. The Alpha Alpha chapter at Illinois was organized in 1928. It is a national Jewish fraternity, including members in almost every dental college in the country.

Aside from the cultural and social aspect, Alpha Omega has achieved an excellent sports record.
The College of Medicine, in addition to being the largest medical school in the United States, is rapidly becoming known the country over for its exceptionally fine laboratory equipment and unusual clinical facilities. Originally a privately owned institution founded in 1881, it affiliated with the University of Illinois in 1897, and with the Colleges of Dentistry and Pharmacy became an organic part of the University in 1913. The fact that these three Colleges, all teaching the medical sciences, are now housed under the same roof makes exceptionally fine opportunities for each College. The added fact that the University now owns and operates its own hospitals (Research and Educational Hospitals), and also has affiliation with Cook County Hospital and Presbyterian Hospital all located within one and one-half blocks of the central building has greatly increased the effectiveness of the clinical instruction.

The College is located on the near west side of Chicago approximately three miles from the Loop, and in the very heart of the great west side medical development which the State of Illinois is sponsoring. The unusual combination of favorable factors outlined above leads to the general agreement that the three Colleges comprising the Chicago Professional Campus have, indeed, an exceedingly bright future.

ILLI-SOTA

Occupational Therapy was introduced on this campus in the fall of 1943, directed by Beatrice Wade. The course, the first to be administered by a college of medicine, consists of ten semesters of study, six given under the direction of the Liberal Arts College on the Urbana campus, and four in the College of Medicine in Chicago. On November 19, 1944, it was accredited by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

Illi-Sota, the official name of the Illinois chapter of the Student-Occupational Therapy Association, which was recognized as a campus activity in March, 1944, seeks through semi-monthly meetings to encourage friendship among its members, acquaint them with their future profession, and identify themselves as a professional group.
The Medical Student Council of the University of Illinois is an organization consisting of democratically elected representatives of the student body of the College of Medicine. It cooperates with the administration, faculty, students, and any interested individuals or groups in the attainment of its objectives.

From its membership this Council elects a President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer. Each class in Medicine is represented by its president, three regular councilmen and one alternate. Dr. Warren H. Cole and Dr. Frederick C. Lendrum are faculty advisors of the Council. The Council provides for student representation, coordinates the programs of the four classes, and acts as liaison agent between the students and the faculty.

Plans for this year include: Sponsorship of three forums on the subject of Socialized Medicine, and establishment of an annual award to the outstanding faculty member in each class in the Medical School, this award being named in honor of former Dean Raymond B. Allen.
Alpha Epsilon Iota is a fraternity of women in medicine whose purpose it is to promote good fellowship, to maintain a high order of scholarship and professional achievement, and to foster a spirit of moral and social helpfulness. At the University of Illinois the Delta chapter was founded in 1899. Membership is made up of both students and practicing physicians.
Alpha Kappa Kappa was the offspring of a fraternity at Dartmouth known as "The Ace of Spades," founded in 1888. Today it has reached the height of being the third largest medical fraternity in America. The fraternity has forty-four active chapters, with a membership of almost twenty thousand, scattered throughout the nation at many of the better known medical schools.

Eta Chapter at the University of Illinois medical school is composed of a large active membership, a large percentage of whom live in the chapter house. The purpose of the fraternity is to better their future association in their profession.
NU SIGMA NU

Nu Sigma Nu, the oldest medical fraternity, was conceived, created and evolved of the need of cooperation and fellowship of medical men by Will Mayo and four others.

From this modest initial five, it has grown to a proud stature embracing within its ranks some twenty-five thousand followers of the cult of Aesculapius, and having at this time forty chapters in as many selected class “A” medical schools of the United States and Canada.

Functions of Nu Sigma Nu include the annual pheasant dinner, interfraternity dances, a campus carnival, and impromptu fraternity house gatherings which round out another busy year.
Phi Beta Pi, having been established at the University of Pittsburgh in 1891, ranks with the oldest medical fraternities. The Iota Chapter was established in 1902 at the College of Physicians and Surgeons and is today one of the strongest of forty chapters located at every important medical center in the United States.

The Phi Beres have always made an excellent showing by good scholarship, but they are also present in the largest numbers at all school social activities. Last year they won most of the important athletic events.

The many social functions they sponsor for their chapter, their alumni, and their large faculty membership are well remembered by every Phi Bete.
PHI DELTA EPSILON

This fraternity has been established to promote good fellowship, equality and unity among its members; to encourage the highest standards of achievement in the science and art of medicine; and to maintain the highest standard of ethics in the practice of medicine.
Phi Rho Sigma is a closely knit group with exacting standards. With cooperation and mutual encouragement, scholastically, socially, and athletically, the members can call themselves truly brothers in the medical profession.
Pi Kappa Epsilon is a professional honorary medical society. The members are men who are elected by popular ballot by the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois. The members are derived from medical fraternities on the Chicago Campus and from the medical faculty of the University of Illinois and of Rush Medical College.

Twice a month dinner meetings are given which feature a guest speaker, who leads a discussion on currently popular and vital medical questions.

The University of Illinois Chapter of Pi Kappa Epsilon is the Beta Chapter. This medical society was founded in 1921 at Northwestern Medical School.
Alpha Omega Alpha is a medical honorary fraternity, membership to which is based upon scholastic achievements. It was founded at the University of Illinois College of Medicine on August 25, 1902, by William Root. At the present time there are chapters in 47 medical schools in the United States and Canada.

Phi Lambda Kappa was established to provide recreation for its members and to encourage interest in the medical and social sciences. It is dedicated to the support of justice and tolerance.

The staff of the College of Pharmacy welcomes the many students who have either entered for the first time, or resumed their formal education, as a part of a training program in pharmaceutical education. We are only sorry that the facilities available were not adequate to accommodate all of the applicants. The administration of the University is endeavoring to meet this greater challenge required of all institutions of higher learning. The College of Pharmacy is likewise seeking expansion of its present facilities, adding new staff members, and making such revisions in the curricula as are indicated by the advances which have been made in the medical sciences. How well we succeed in this endeavor will depend, in large measure, upon our whole-hearted cooperation within the membership of the profession.

The objects and purposes for which this body is formed are to conduct a mutual fraternal organization, having for its object the mutual advantages of its members; and, to this end to unite in fraternal bonds persons of good character and sound mental health, by conferring upon them such degrees as are prescribed by the ritual of the fraternity, which degrees are designed to exemplify industry, sobriety, mutual fellowship and esteem, to inculcate nobility and courage of mind and heart; and to further in every way possible the advantages of its members, socially, morally, and intellectually; and also to foster pharmaceutical research and high scholarship.
LAMBDA KAPPA SIGMA

The Gamma chapter of Lambda Kappa Sigma, the national pharmaceutical sorority, was founded to encourage personality, scholarship, and interest in the profession of pharmacy.

Rho Chi is the national honorary pharmaceutical society. The function of this society is to advance the science of pharmacy and the related sciences.
From an inauspicious beginning a few years ago, the Chicago Campus section in The Illio has increased in size from two pages to the present size of sixty-four pages. This growth has been due to the continuing efforts of The Illio staffs of past years who have striven to improve both the coverage of Chicago Campus events and to increase the space allotted to their presentation in The Illio.

This year’s staff is appreciative of the support given The Illio by the student body at Chicago, and of the efforts of previous staffs, which have made possible the publication this year of the largest (and we hope, best) Chicago Campus section in history.
The Illini Scope is the Chicago Campus publication that concerns itself with student and faculty activities. The monthly editions contain original articles pertaining to scientific advancements and current problems in medical education.
This statue of Apollo was unveiled June 5, 1946, to mark the birthplace of Alpha Omega Alpha, Honorary Society in Medicine. Alpha Chapter of this society was founded on the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois in 1902, through the efforts of Dr. W. W. Root, and has been followed by forty-six additional chapters in the leading medical schools of the United States.

This memorial is the culmination of activity by Alpha Chapter members, dating back to a suggestion by Dean D. W. Davis (Emeritus) in 1941. It was created by Mr. and Mrs. Chaissang, Chicago sculptors.

CLASS OF 1950
FRESHMAN COUNCIL
The Student Senate is composed of fifteen elected members representing the four undergraduate classes of the University. In addition to the elected members, there are ten ex-officio members who represent major campus activities.

The Student Senate has legislative power coordinate with that of the committee on Student Affairs over such fields as housing regulations, social events, campus activities, and professional and honorary societies. Those matters falling within the jurisdiction of the Interfraternity or the Panhellenic council are excluded from the Student Senate's regulation. Differences arising between the Senate and the Committee on Student Affairs are settled by an arbitration committee selected from both bodies.

Standing committees of the Student Senate are Honorary Organizations, Social Events, Extra-Curricular Activities, General Welfare, Elections, and By-Laws.

The expenses of the Student Senate are paid from the Student Senate fund which is maintained by the payment of 1.5% of the gross income from all dances under the supervision of the Audit and Supervision Committee.

Any student in the University has the right to debate on the floor of the Senate, subject to approval by the Senate at a previous meeting as to the subject of the debate and time limitations.
STUDENT AFFAIRS AUDIT AND SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

All social events and general university functions to which admissions are charged are supervised by the Student Affairs Audit and Supervision Committee. As a section of the Student Senate and the Committee on Student Affairs, it is also responsible to them. Actually consisting of nine members, this committee claims five students selected by the Student Senate. The remaining part is composed of one student and two faculty men named by the chairman of the Committee on Student Affairs, and the executive secretary, Dean Vern J. Hampton.

The work of the Student Affairs Audit and Supervision Committee includes approval of the date, place, and budget of the functions and events approved by the Committee on Student Affairs, and the printing, issuance, collection, and audit of all tickets. Guidance is given to those in charge of student directed activities charging admission. In addition, the committee is charged with responsibility for the patron and complimentary ticket lists as well as the distribution of invitations and of the complimentary tickets. All season passes issued to dances and other supervised University functions are issued by the committee.
MEN'S INDEPENDENT ASSOCIATION

The Men’s Independent Association is the organization of the independent men on campus. Its activities fall into the following categories: social, athletic, academic, and, most important among them, special problems facing the independents on the campus. The social activities are varied. M.I.A. sponsors sings, a stunt show, banquets and dinners, couple dances, and a mixer and date service called “Introductions Please.” Most of these events are arranged jointly with W.G.S. M.I.A. also has intramural sports which are managed in conjunction with the Athletic Association. In the academic field trophies are awarded to independent men’s houses for high scholarship. M.I.A.’s most important work concerns a problem always facing the independent men; that is housing. Combatting this common difficulty, M.I.A. continually strives to better conditions.

M.I.A. is governed by the Council which meets weekly and is composed of representatives of independent men’s houses. Every independent man is automatically a member of the organization and all are qualified to work in M.I.A. functions. In addition to the four officers, there are three appointees who head the work in different divisions; they are the Social Chairman, Membership Chairman, and Intramural Sports Director. M.I.A. has an award system by which silver and gold keys are given to individuals for outstanding service.

Continuous heavy use of its building by a great variety of campus groups and by the largest membership in its history, with many former members returned as veterans, the extension of cordial relationships with foreign students; and a deepening of the sense of Christian fellowship and purpose among its members have marked the 1946-47 school year of the Young Men's Christian Association. The year also brought the revival of Freshman Camp and a rejuvenated spring Leadership Training Conference.

Veterans participated in two series of luncheon forums, one held each semester. Large enrollments of single men, married couples, or young mothers attended one or more of the courses conducted by Dr. Katherine Whiteside Taylor, specialist in Education for Family Life.

Friday and Saturday nights found The Wigwam Room a popular spot where YM and YWCA members and their guests gathered for relaxation, for refreshments, for dancing, and for visiting with friends.

While this was a year of opportunity, it was also one marked with deep sorrow for the organization. With the death of Henry E. Wilson, for thirty years its general secretary, the Association lost its beloved "Chief" and the campus lost a distinguished Christian leader and a great friend.

Composed of all major chairmen of the Union, this group meets once every two weeks. Each time a different director takes charge. One of the several purposes of the council is to train the major chairmen to become board members, as board members are chosen from this group for the following year. At the meetings each major chairman gives an accurate report of what his committee is doing and what functions are being planned for the future. This practice prevents overlapping of entertainment between the various committees. The meeting also affords the members an opportunity to become better acquainted and assist each other in planning.

The Illini Board governs student activities of an All-University nature. This year the board published a university social calendar which was distributed to all houses on campus.

The board consists of three faculty members appointed by the President of the University upon recommendation of the Dean of Students, the social director of the Illini Union, the manager of the building, the director of the Alumni Association, the representatives for I-F, Panhellenic, M.I.A., W.G.S., and six directors of the Illini Union. There are also three ex-officio members of the board.

The board must approve all petitions other than house dances put on by the various groups. Any profit from Illini Union functions is redistributed to the students in the form of free services and entertainment, in accordance with the budget approved by the Board.
The Department of Alumni Affairs furthers relations between students and alumni. Representatives from each class, one from Galesburg, and one from Navy Pier make up the Board of Directors.

This department has charge of all events during Homecoming weekend, and the Founders’ Day celebration. The Loyalty Committee sponsors the pep rallies, send-offs and welcomes for the team, the Warhoops Committee, which has charge of the block I, and the award for the athlete of the year.

Student and Alumni Relations Committee is also handled by this department. They sponsor the Gold Star Illini Book, and the Question and Answer Hour in connection with the Convocation program. The Traditions Committee brings back to the Illini campus old traditions, such as the Hobo Parade, and Orange and Blue Day. A student and alumni gathering is held at Christmas. Membership and June Class Reunions also come under the wing of this department.

The Illini Union Department of Dances is divided into five committees which function together to make the Union the center for dancing. Illini Union Dances are sponsored every Saturday night; square dancing is held every Tuesday night, and mixers on Fridays. Various new tanges, sambas, and jitterbug steps are taught at Social Dances on Wednesday nights. During the second semester Coke Dances afforded the students a chance to extend the pleasures of an afternoon date by dancing in The Commons.

The Illini Union Department of Dances also sponsors special dances which are held in the George Huff Gymnasium. For these special events such big name bands as Charlie Spivack, Harry Cool, and Johnny Long are featured. The Registration Dances started the semester off with abundant spirit and were well attended. The Christmas Cotillion featured one of the country's most popular bands.

DEPARTMENT OF ENTERTAINMENT

The Department of Entertainment co-ordinates all entertainment provided by the Illini Union.

It supervises Club Commons, the student soft-drink nite club, which provides a smooth orchestra for dancing, along with a floor show every Friday night.

Although the famous University Sings began late this year, the group singing, comedy acts, vocalists and dance band on stage still drew capacity crowds to the Auditorium.

An Open House Committee was set up to plan free weekends for students in the Union Building; one at the beginning of each semester introduced freshmen to campus activities.

The traditional Illini Union Show, written, directed, and produced by the students, was planned for the weekend of April 25-26.

The Union Varieties Committee brought movies along with cartoons and short subjects to the Auditorium.

The major chairman of the Department of Entertainment conducted auditions throughout the year, and successfully managed a Talent Bureau which provided entertainment from outside sources.

The purpose of the Department of Public Relations is to manage such events as Dad's Day and Mother's Day, and to keep before the student body through publicity all of the activities sponsored by the Illini Union.

The Illini Town Meetings Committee is designed to offer to students the opportunity to take part in discussions and listen to opinions expressed on outstanding current issues. Dad's Day Committee and Mother's Day Committee set up programs through which the parents were able to have an entertaining time on campus and, at the same time, were able to see the campus activities as offered to their sons and daughters.

In addition the Department of Public Relations is responsible for the dissemination of general information of the policy and practices of the Illini Union. Dad's Day and Mother's Day both materially aid in conveying the purposes to the public as a whole.

The Department of Recreation is divided into six major committees which cooperate to give the students of the university the best recreational program possible. The program is so planned that students of every taste and ability are able to use the fullest extent the recreational facilities of the Illini Union. For the lover of classical music, daily music hours are offered in the second floor lounge; the popular music fan may hear the latest recordings in the Pine Lounge. The Tournament Committee arranges tournaments in ping-pong, bowling, billiards, and chess. Hikes are planned for the outdoor enthusiast by the Outing Club. Once a week the Coffee Hour Committee provides the students with an opportunity to become acquainted. Social Forums Committee goes to a different house on the campus each week to answer various questions concerning proper social conduct and Illini tradition and convention. This department also provides hosts and hostesses for such occasions as Dad’s Day.

The Service Committee is in charge of preparing Union activities, pictures and copy. It sends Illios to the high schools in the state.

This committee also plans campus tours, entertains high school visitors and special campus visitors, and has student-conducted special tours on occasions such as Homecoming or Dad's Day.

A question box, which is the information booth, is maintained at the ticket windows.

Behind the scenes is the Offices Management Committee which supervises the office work, telephoning, typing, recreation work, mimeographing, and filing.

Under Red Cross, the current entertainment group provides for bringing soldiers from Chanute Field into homes for dinner, and securing tickets for dances; the able-bodied unit helps direct soldiers in working with plastics and art work. The hospital unit goes on Wednesday nights to the hospital at Chanute and presents ward parties. The fourth unit, the Canteen, sponsors coffee hours at Chanute on Sunday afternoons.

Since the opening of the Illini Union on February 8, 1941, Mr. V. L. Kretschmer and his capable staff have guided the numerous activities.

It is estimated that about 20,000 people enter the Union daily. In order to efficiently accommodate such a large crowd, there are six Union managers, each supervising the functions of one of the divisions of the Union's activities.

The food staff has a huge task; they expect to serve a total of 2,000,000 meals, in the Commons, the ballroom cafeteria, the Tavern, and the Colonial room.

The Illini Union Bookstore is a beneficial project which pays dividends to the students patronizing the store.

Also, a large staff schedules the 2,500 meetings taking place each year at the Union building. Another manager arranges reservations for the many affairs and parties held in the student center.

The sixth large division of the Union is the Special Services branch. Among these services are the bowling alleys and billiard tables, the guest rooms, and the lounges.

This year the Union administration has undertaken the enormous task of installing switchboards that will handle all incoming University calls. This system will eliminate the necessity of calling different numbers for every department on the campus.

Every student at the University of Illinois should be grateful to the administration for their part in making our Union a pleasant place in which to spend our leisure hours and a conducive place in which to work and study.
The University Convocations bring to our campus competent speakers on subjects of general interest. The Convocations are open to all without charge. Following each address opportunity is provided for a question period and an informal discussion in the Illini Union.
The first speaker of 1946 was Sullivan Richardson, well-known explorer and author, who spoke on “Adventure South to Cape Horn” and “Good Neighbors and Strategic Materials.” In January, Dr. Kirtley Mather, scientist, editor, and professor of geology at Harvard University, presented his views on “When Science and Religion Meet.”

Lt. General Ira C. Baker, Chief of Air Staff, stirred his audience with the topic: “A Brief Look at Two Wars.” In May, the internationally famous Carl Van Doren, author and Pulitzer Prize Winner, spoke on “America’s Role in the World of Tomorrow.” Later in the month, Major General Carl R. Gray, Jr., who was in charge of Allied military railroads in Europe, discussed “Railroading in Eighteen Countries.”

June brought Clifton Utley, well-known radio news analyst, and his topic: “The Age of Super Powers, United States and Russia.” Design for Waging Peace” was the topic chosen for the August Convocation by Dr. Harold Benjamin, a prominent figure in international educational relations.

The fall season was opened by Captain Robert Conrad of the Navy Office of Research and Inventions who presented “The Navy Looks Forward with Research.” The last program was given by a former congressman and present Professor of Philosophy at the University of Chicago who gave his interpretation of “Our Educational Hope and Policy in Conquered Lands.”

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity Council is the supervisory and governing body of all social fraternities within the University. Illinois was the first University to organize an I.F. Council. “Its purpose is to provide for the general welfare and social, scholastic, and recreational activities of the members of the fraternities within the council; and to instill in them the highest regard for the Illinois traditions and institutions.” Wider acquaintance and fuller cooperations are fostered by the very composition of the council because it has a junior and senior representative from each fraternity. Regular weekly meetings and committee meetings provide the setting for getting acquainted and disseminating constructive ideas for fraternity operation.

Rules and regulations for rushing and pledgeship are determined by this council. The council and University Y.M.C.A. jointly sponsor an All-Pledge Banquet for the new pledges. Each spring an Interfraternity Ball is given for all fraternity men and their guests.

Various all-campus activities may be attributed to this council. The most hilarious of these is the traditional Pajama Race held each fall and spring. Other activities vary from year to year.

The council does not limit its activities to these mentioned, but includes others for which the council sees a need.

NEWMAN FOUNDATION

The Newman Foundation is the Catholic student center on the campus of the University. Its program is under the direction of the Reverend Dr. Edward J. Duncan, who is assisted by the Reverend Edward W. O'Rourke and the Reverend Edgar C. Taylor.

First among the Foundation's activities is the work of St. John's Catholic Chapel, which offers the Catholic students several masses daily and Sunday, opportunity for frequent reception of the sacraments, and other liturgical services throughout the year. Important phases of the foundation program include credit courses in religion, the choir, the Sanctuary Society, the Altar Society, the Graduate Students' League and the Married Couples' Group.

The activities of the Newman Club, official Catholic student organization on campus, include corporate communions, discussion groups, lectures, dramatics, intramural sports, and parties. The Newman Club has the following threefold purpose: to deepen the spiritual and enrich the temporal lives of its members, to weld the Catholic students into a common union, and to assist the university and its students whenever possible.

McKinley Foundation, the Presbyterian center, is a "home away from home" for University students. A spirit of fellowship prevails in a program of training in the standards and ideals of student religious leaders.

The programs are planned and directed by the student council, aided by the staff members, Dr. James Hine, Miss Jennis Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Plagge, and Mr. Arthur B. Hall. Activities of the year include Sunday night supper clubs, Wednesday afternoon teas and vespers, "Gloom Chaser" teas during exams, big parties on Friday nights, and the annual spring banquet. Two Sunday morning worship services are held each week in order to accommodate the crowds.

Interdenominational religious cooperation at the University of Illinois is accomplished through the Religious Workers Association and the Student Religious Council. The R.W.A. consists of staff members of the several denominational foundations and the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. The Student Religious Council is composed of two student delegates from each of these same organizations. The two advisors appointed from the Religious Workers Association are Reverend James Hine and Miss Vera Voltz. Dr. E. E. Lindstrom is the faculty advisor.

The Student Religious Council sponsors Campus Matins, and special campus-wide services on Thanksgiving, Holy Week, Good Friday, and Easter.

The Roger Williams Fellowship is the Baptist Foundation Group for University students. Its center is the University Baptist Church, established in 1912 to help make vital religion an integral part of Illini life. Reverend Paul Offenhiser is the Minister and Director, and Reverend Monroe Robinson, Associate Director of the Foundation.

The Student Council, selected on a basis of interest and ability, develops the program designed to serve students through intelligent worship, religious education, open discussion of vital issues, candlelight suppers, and democratic social life.

The program affords training in Protestant Churchmanship and includes both week-day and Sunday activities.

The Wesley Foundation is the center for the Methodist students, providing a church life especially designed for campus needs. Organized in 1913, this is the first of one hundred and twenty Wesley Foundations now spread throughout the country. Its varied, all-the-week program includes the following: church services with student choir; student classes; fellowship suppers and student vespers on Sunday evenings; Friendly Refreshment hours, Wednesday afternoon; social events, Friday evenings; Wes-Illini, the Foundation newspaper; an annual Wesley Banquet; and varied study, drama, and music groups, in which all kinds of interest and talent find expression. The Wesley Foundation majors in friendliness and training for practical service.

The Student Council plans and directs this program in cooperation with the Foundation staff members, Dr. Paul Burt, Mrs. Donald Smith, Mrs. John Parker, and Mr. Robert J. Trobaugh.

Hillel Foundation

The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation is the center serving the cultural, social, and religious needs of the Jewish student on the Illinois campus. On the principle that the patterns of Jewish life are an important part of western civilization and can enrich the resources of the campus, Hillel activities are planned as a supplement to university and extra-curricular life.

Students are encouraged to develop their own programs with the friendly counsel of the directors and staff. Through these democratic experiences it is hoped that the students will achieve those capacities for responsible leadership which will enable them to serve their home communities. The workshops and committees serve as laboratories where the students may give creative expression to their interests. The Hillel year is highlighted by events such as the following: Hillel Credit Courses, Religious Services, Town Hall, Forum Series, Film Classics Series, Coffee Hour Discussions, Words and Music, Hillel Plays, Sings, Stunt Show, and Carnival.

ILLINOIS DISCIPLES' FOUNDATION

Dr. Stephen E. Fisher, Minister of University Place Church and Director,
Illinois Disciples' Foundation

The Rev. Miss Norma C. Brown, Student Pastor and Associate Director of Illinois Disciples' Foundation

Illinois Disciples' Foundation is an incorporated agency representing the Disciples of Christ of Illinois in serving the religious life of students at the University with special responsibility for those of Disciple preference. It operates in close cooperation with the University Place Christian Church.

Its Student Organization, the Disciplinia Fellowship, operates on a functional basis through its officers; its cabinet, composed of eleven chairmen; and its council, composed of sub-chairmen and members of functional committees.
Illinois Pan-hellenic, which is associated with the National Pan-hellenic Council, was formed at the University of Illinois before 1918. Its membership is composed of the twenty-five social sorority groups on the campus. The elected President of Pan-hellenic presides over the two governing bodies; the Presidents' Council and the Executive Council. The President of each sorority is a member of the Presidents' Council, where all the rules pertaining to the sororities are voted upon. The Executive Council, composed of the Pan-hellenic officers, the Departmental Chairmen, the Court of Appeals and Shi-Ai, presents suggestions to guide and direct the individual houses according to the rules of the Pan-hellenic Constitution.

The Pan-hellenic objective is to create friendship and effective living among the sororities, and between Pan-hellenic and other groups. Active interest and participation in local and national activities is encouraged. Among Pan-hellenic’s philanthropic works is the foster child, an underprivileged child in Europe, sponsored by the Presidents’ Council, and the furnishing of milk and other necessities to local underprivileged children by Shi-Ai.

Pan-hellenic set a precedent among colleges by holding formal rushing for the first time in the spring last year.

Another outstanding event of the year was the Pan-hellenic Ball in November, with music by Dick Jurgens.

WOMAN'S GROUP SYSTEM

Woman's Group System is the organization of all independent women on campus. Included in the system are the women's residence halls, scattered groups, and organized women's houses. The presidents of these groups participate in a weekly council meeting; they also sponsor activities within their own groups. This year there are over 70 organized groups.

W.G.S. devotes its time to the encouragement of scholarship, activities, and social life among its members. Its own activities are varied. Among the major group events are the District Teas, the Christmas Musical, the Watcheka Sing, and the President's Banquet. W.G.S. cooperates with M.I.A. in presenting an annual stunt show, the Independent Informal and the formal Mal-Hila dance. Climaxing the year's activities in the W.G.S. Spring Awards Tea, where recognition is given independent houses and students for outstanding scholarship and activity participation.

The Executive Council of W.G.S. is the policy-determining group. This council is composed of the district chairmen, the committee chairmen, the officers, and the faculty adviser. The officers are elected in the spring for the following year by popular vote of all of the members of W.G.S. All other positions are appointed by the officers, following interviews of all qualified girls who applied for the position. Any independent woman may petition for a position on the committees of W.G.S.

The Young Women’s Christian Association has served as a center for Christian living on the University of Illinois campus for sixty-two years. Women students, faculty, and alumnae combine their efforts to maintain the high standards and ideals of the association and to achieve its purpose—“Full and creative life”—for all students.

Each week the YWCA sponsors Thursday afternoon Vespers, Freshman Interest Groups, and social functions. The annual Doll Show brings happiness to many underprivileged children who find the dolls, dressed by women students, on Christmas morning. This year our YWCA was hostess to the meeting of the National Assembly of the Student Divisions of the YWCA and YMCA, held on this campus during the Christmas vacation.

Each and every girl is important in the YWCA, but the freshmen are foremost in the minds of all. The YW has special interest groups to help freshmen women adjust to campus life and later to find a place in one of the sixteen departments in the Y.

All members contribute the annual fee and may participate in all YWCA functions. All University women are invited to take part in the YWCA program.

Meetings are Fun!

Women at Work —
Any girl planning to lead a well-rounded college life—balancing study with recreation, may participate in W.A.A. activities. You do not have to be proficient in any sport. The opportunity to acquire skill in different athletics is offered four seasons a year.

W.A.A. members also take part in special events—contests, playdays with other schools, teas, and receptions.

After completing one sports season, any girl is eligible to become an active member. Rewards are awarded to those members who merit them. The highest award is the Major "I" awarded to those who have successfully completed ten sports seasons. Orange class numerals go to those completing six sport seasons.

W.A.A. is divided into Interhouse and General. Interhouse competition is stimulated by the Interhouse trophy, which is awarded in the spring. It goes to the house that accumulates the highest number of points during the year. Individual girls may compete in the General Division.

Organizations sponsored by W.A.A. are Orchesis, an honorary dancing group, and Terrapin, an honorary swimming group.

Alpha Sigma Nu, W.A.A. honorary, offers membership to any girl completing eight sport seasons, and maintaining a University average of a "4."

W.A.A. activities encourage good sportsmanship, future leadership, keen competition, and physical well-being.

Orchesis, the modern dance group on campus, gives its members opportunity for composition and performance. At the beginning of each semester try-outs are held for those interested in joining the group. Orchesis is divided into two sections, general Orchesis and Concert Orchesis. In general Orchesis emphasis is placed on technique and beginning composition. In Concert Orchesis more advanced technique and composition are worked on.

Orchesis presents a Christmas program each year. This year the theme was developed on Christmas carols and the story of "The Juggler of Notre Dame."

It was presented in Lincoln Hall Theatre on December 18th. Orchesis' most ambitious project of the year is their annual spring concert.

Each semester Mrs. Margaret Mains and Miss Anne Betts, faculty advisers of the group, and members of Orchesis present a lecture demonstration for art and music appreciation classes.

The officers of Orchesis are: president, Meriam Levine; secretary, Alice Burke; treasurer, Mary Abbott; corresponding secretary, Barabara Hunsucker; mistress of the wardrobe, Ethel Picard.
Climaxing a season of diligent yet enjoyable practices, was the annual water pageant held in May. Outstanding skill, performed individually and as a group, was noticeable, as forty-five girls executed intricate and original swimming formations. Sparkling costumes, colorful scenery, and varied music added to the gala occasion.

Members of the club are selected on the basis of tryouts which test their ability in swimming and diving. These tryouts are open to all University women. This year, a new group was started to increase swimming proficiency for those girls who had not succeeded in passing the tryouts.

Co-sponsoring a women’s swimming meet with W.A.A. was again one of the activities of the club. Enthusiasm was high as the swimmers vied for medals and the inter-house trophy. In the spring, Terrapin entered a team of outstanding swimmers to represent the University in the annual National Inter-Collegiate Telegraphic Swimming Meet.

This year the club was ably guided by Miss Virginia Lee Horne, new head of the women’s swimming department. Successfully directing the club were Bonniejean Schmeig, president; Carol Schulman, vice-president; Ruth Christiansen, secretary; Janet McAuley, treasurer; and Jeanne Murphy, historian.
THE DAILY ILLINI

In its seventy-fifth year of publishing at the University The Daily Illini was headed by Alfred Gertler and Ralph Hallenstein, Co-Managing Editors, who outlined the new policy of making the newspaper primarily a paper for the University students with national and international news secondary to local news.

Gathering news was divided among various staffs headed by Assistant Editors Bob Beam, Seymour Friedman, Barbara Gilbreath, Elaine Sell and Martha Swain. In addition to the actual gathering of news, editing it, and making up the paper, the editors trained freshmen reporters in newspaper work. They were assisted in all general editorial work by nine copy editors.

The Illinois Agriculturist is the student publication of the College of Agriculture. The aims of the magazine, which is published six times during the school year, are to keep the students informed of achievements in the field of scientific agriculture, to report to them on the current activities about the Ag Campus, and to acquaint them more fully with the staff and departments of the College of Agriculture. In this, the fifty-first year of publication of the Illinois Agriculturist, Eldon Larson is Editor; Ruth Jaques is Woman's Editor; and Robert Corzine, Business Manager. The staff is assisted by a Faculty Advisory Board of which O. H. Sears is chairman. The other members are: R. H. Wilcox, A. S. Colby, C. S. Rhode, and Miss Jesse Heathman.
Established in 1885, the Illinois Technograph, the student publication of the College of Engineering, has been serving the students for sixty-two years. It is a member of Engineering College Magazines Associated and has always been in high standing with the organization.

The Technograph presents feature articles of technical and semi-technical nature, new developments, personalities of professors and students, news of honorary and departmental societies, joke page, and other news of current interest. A new feature added this year is the indoctrination page. This page carries articles of information for new students in the college. Free copies of the magazine are sent to 650 high schools in the state of Illinois.

The staff, after struggling along during the war years, is now back to its normal complement. Progress is being made to re-establish the Technograph as one of the best magazines in the E.C.M.A. helped by the advice of Professor J. A. Henry and Professor A. R. Knight.
The Illini Publishing Company under the direction of Don Hoebel, company business manager and student advisor, and Cecil A. Moyer, chairman of the board of control, provides the best printing service available at the minimum cost.

The company has under its supervision the various university student publications The Illio, yearbook; The Daily Illini, newspaper; The Agriculturist, magazine published by the students in the College of Agriculture; and The Technograph, magazine published by the students in the College of Engineering.

Eight directors control the company’s affairs. Four of these are students, serving a period of two years and elected by the student body. The other four are chosen by the president of the university and are faculty members, serving a one year term.

This board of control chooses the students to fill vacancies on the publication staffs. Recommendations are given the board by the student heads of the publications. The board acts as an advisory committee, encouraging student initiative.
PUBLICATIONS

... AT WORK
Stage and Concert
During 1946 and 1947 the Illini Theatre Guild conscientiously developed into an experimental workshop which presented to the University of Illinois the most extensive theatrical program ever witnessed. The expanded enrollment of the University brought about increased interest in the drama. Continuing as Supervising Director of Dramatic Productions for the University is Professor Wesley Swanson. Professor Charles Shattuck is the Associate Director of the Guild. Mr. Jay Allen is in charge of musical productions. Miss Elizabeth Harris is Technical Director for scenery construction, painting, properties, and lighting. Miss Lucilla Hall is Technical Director for costumes and makeup, and Director of the Laboratory Theatre.
ILLINI THEATRE GUILD

 Supervision and organization of Illini Theatre Guild is divided among nine senior managers. Each is in charge of a department activity.

 This year Nancy Noble, Elizabeth Bond, Mary Hadfield, Mary Homrighous, Jayne Alice Groves, Margaret Waldo, Barbara Gulley and Eileen Neadell hold the key positions.

 Junior Managers are the crew chairmen for each production. These fifteen managers rotate as chairmen in business or production. Sophomore Managers assist the Junior Managers and Senior Managers in running the crews.

 Both the backstage crews and actors found working with unusual theatre techniques this past year extremely interesting. Experimentation in the use of various levels in stage and areas in the Globe Theatre was done by cast and crews of the Shakespearian drama.

 A new type of audience contact through the use of arena staging was tried in the "out front" scenes of "Lear" and "Alcestis."
Shakespeare's powerful "King Lear" roared across the Illini Theatre Guild's reproduction of the old Globe Playhouse for the first production of 1946. The reproduction of Shakespeare's original playhouse, complete in its details, enhanced the dramatic content of the play for its modern audiences.

It was the first time in over three hundred years that this type of staging had been used in the production of "Lear." Four separate acting areas were available to the large cast which utilized them in rapid succession in the fast-moving tragedy.

The play, produced under the direction of Charles Shattuck, featured Charles Francisco as King Lear, Lorena Ross as Cordelia, Jane Alice Groves as Goneril, and Alio Wolff as Regan.
“Beggar on Horseback,” the dream spectacle of George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, directed by Wesley Swanson, was the Illini Theatre Guild’s April production. It delighted campus audiences with its flashy dream sequences and bright dialogue satirizing the materialistic idea of modern life.

The play was expressionistic—a series of brief scenes, in stylized settings, with abstract, symbolic and puppet-like characters. Making the fanciful plot even more entertaining, was a lyrical interlude, “A Kiss in Xanadu.”

This pantomime, written by Winthrop Ames and set to the music of Deems Taylor, was another of the dream wanderings of the hero of the play, Neil McRae, played by John Briggs.
For Mother's Day, the Illini Theatre Guild presented its annual Arepo comic opera, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance" or "The Slave of Duty" under the direction of Jay Allen. The forever popular story was highlighted by unusually effective backdrops designed and rendered by Arthur Fairman.

The illogical tale of a young lad mistakenly apprenticed to a pirate band keeps its audiences laughing with its highly entertaining improbabilities.

Bright costuming and an excellent orchestra, made up of members of the School of Music, added to the general gaiety of the sellout performances.

Wallace Sturm portrayed the Major-General Stanley, Wesley Schwengel, the Pirate King, and Ralph Evans, Frederic (the Pirate Apprentice).
All the brightness and gaiety of Noel Coward at his best was seen in the Illini Theatre Guild's production of "Blithe Spirit," produced under the direction of Professor Wesley Swanson during the summer semester. The action of the play takes place in the living room of Charles Condommine's house in Kent, England.

The play, because of its sophistication, is an extremely difficult one to do, but it was handled well by veteran Guild actors.

The backstage crews of "Blithe Spirit" played an even greater part than usual in making this production successful. The setting was designed by Jean Rogers. Unusual lighting effects and stage magic baffled and delighted the audiences.
The purpose of Mask and Bauble, the all-university dramatic honorary society, is to develop and foster a greater interest in student dramatic productions, and to recognize students who have helped in these productions through their sustained contributions in acting casts and working on backstage crews and business crews.

Ray Dahlgren led the organization this year as president with Mariellen Damon as vice-president. Other officers are: secretary, Lorene Carothers; treasurer, Atha Tehon; and historian, Jack Hasch.

Mask and Bauble was first formed at the University of Illinois in 1904 by Thatcher Howland Guild, and since that time the organization has functioned to create the interest in dramatics which makes the Illini Theatre Guild one of the largest campus activities. In 1924 the active chapter of Mask and Bauble became a chapter of the national dramatic fraternity, National Collegiate Players. At that time a new organization was formed which has continued to the present time.

Each year an operetta, usually by Gilbert and Sullivan, is produced by the University of Illinois students for those who enjoy light opera. A number of students devote their talents to making the operetta more successful each year. Not only musicians are necessary, but also a large backstage crew must attend to the scenery, costumes, props, and make-up. Therefore, Arepo is the musical honorary founded to honor these students. Members are chosen on the basis of the time and effort they have contributed to each show. This year's operetta, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience", was given during the spring semester.

Other activities of the organization included dinners and parties with the Mask and Bauble and Pierrots.
PIERROTS

PIERROTS, the honorary dramatic fraternity for men of the university, began at the start of the spring semester last year to build to its pre-war standing after three years of very limited activity due to the manpower shortage. In the past Pierrots has been widely known for its annual productions. Last spring the organization gave its first show in several years when it presented "The Naughty Ninety Revue" at the Red Cross Pow Wow. Directed by Jack Sydow and featuring a burlesque of an old-fashioned melodrama, the show received wide praise. Faculty advisor for Pierrots is Professor Wesley Swanson, Supervisor of dramatic productions for the University of Illinois.
The University Concert and Entertainment Board sponsors the Star Course Series. Besides choosing Star Course managers, the Board makes the final decision in the selection of concert artists from the suggestions of staff members and other interested persons.

Since its birth fifty-five years ago, Star Course has been outstanding in bringing cultural entertainment to the University of Illinois. As early as 1883, the Philomathean and Adelphic Literary Societies sponsored lectures by eminent men and women of that time. These occasional lectures proved so popular that in 1891 the Star Lecture Course was begun and remained for twenty-six years under the auspices of these literary societies. In 1931 the University Concert and Entertainment Board was organized to supervise all public entertainment at the University for which admission is charged, and Star Course was placed under its control.
STAR COURSE

The Star Course staff consists of two senior managers, six junior managers, and a sophomore staff, all appointed by the University Concert and Entertainment Board. The senior managers act in an executive and supervisory capacity, working closely with and under the Board. The junior managers are chosen from the sophomore staff at the end of the school year. Under the seniors' supervision they handle Star Course accounts, make arrangements for publicity, supervise ticket sales by the sophomores, carry on routine correspondence, and help to entertain the artists. The juniors are directly in charge of managing concerts and the box office. Sophomore staff managers, who are chosen for their freshman activities, scholarship, and interest, do filing, typing, and other office work in addition to selling tickets and ushering. Staff membership includes the privileges of concert attendance and more personal contact with the artists backstage.
On December 6, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, one of the nation's foremost, presented a concert under the baton of its distinguished conductor, Vladimir Golschmann, Russian by blood and French by birth. The orchestra, the country's second oldest, has made its greatest strides since 1931 when Mr. Golschmann, violinist and pianist, was appointed permanent conductor.

Igor Gorin, famous young Russian baritone, sang for the first program of the 1946-47 Star Course Series on October 16. Mr. Gorin established his reputation in opera and on the concert stage in Europe before he came to this country in 1934. Since his arrival in the United States, he has become a very popular artist through his radio, concert, and operatic performances.
STAR COURSE

Under the direction of Desire Defauw, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, in its fifty-sixth season, brought its 100 musicians to this campus to present a stirring concert on March 10. The teamwork exhibited between the musicians and their conductor combined to present an evening of perfect harmony.

Maryla Jonas, who is rapidly being hailed as one of the leading pianists of today, brought her magical touch here November 7. A native of Poland, Miss Jonas escaped from the Nazis when Warsaw fell and fled to Brazil. After three years of concerts in South America, she came to New York to make her Carnegie Hall debut in April, 1946.
Tossy Spivakovsky, the brilliant young Russian violinist, performed on February 6. He made his debut at the age of ten and played in concerts throughout Europe. He was heard this season in many recitals on his first transcontinental tour of the United States and Canada, as well as soloist with many of the leading symphony orchestras.

Bidu Sayao, petite and lovely Brazilian soprano, gave her concert March 24. Since her introduction to the country by Toscanini, she has been widely praised for her work with the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. In 1937 she was engaged by the Metropolitan Opera Company where she has starred in lyric and coloratura roles.
Besides the regular series, Star Course sponsored two additional recitals. On January 31, E. Power Biggs, America's foremost organist, presented a concert in the University Auditorium. Mr. Biggs' brilliant performance proved his reputation as a great contemporary artist and his true mastery of his instrument. On March 21, Alexander Schneider, violinist, and Ralph Kirkpatrick, harpsichordist, presented an outstanding evening of chamber music in Smith Recital Hall. The collaboration of these two celebrated artists has made it possible to hear some of the finest Eighteenth Century music in the colors in which it was conceived.

The London String Quartet, one of Britain's finest ensembles, presented an outstanding complimentary concert on February 13. The quartet, founded in 1908, has given over three hundred concerts in London, performed in all the major European cities, and has made sixteen transcontinental tours of America. The present members of the quartet are John Pennington and Laurent Halleux, violinists; Cecil Bonvalot, violist; and C. Warwick Evans, violoncellist.

SUMMER PROM

The Summer Prom, held on August 10, brought many Illini to the Union Ballroom. Four hundred couples danced to the music of Sy Legner and his orchestra. Under the direction of Jean Gates and her committee, the prom highlighted the summer social season.
Johnny Long's orchestra welcomed back old and new Illini September 23rd at the Registration Dance in Huff Gym. Two cardboard figures, a fellow and girl bewildered by their registration blanks, were the decorations. The dance was a sell-out, in fact, demand for more tickets was so great that a second dance was held in the Union Ballroom, where students danced to the music of Dick Cisne. Miss Jean Gates was chairman of the dance.
Confetti and balloons poured down on a crowd of 2,200 at the Senior Ball as they danced to the music of Bob Strong. The main theme of the dance held in Huff gymnasium on May 29 was a huge cut-out of a couple decked with mortar boards.
One of the main events of the Christmas Season was the Junior Prom of the class of 1948. An almost capacity of 1,100 couples filled the Huff Gym on Friday, December 13, to dance to the music of the "old woodchopper," Woody Herman.

The feature of the evening was the grand march followed by the crowning of the Junior Prom Queen, Georgianna Gates, and the introduction of her court of honor, Natalie Ecklund, Gloria Gould, Pat Simkins, and Juanita McKean. All were presented with a dozen red roses.

Another feature was Herman's playing of "White Christmas" while artificial snow floated over the dance.
Tommy Dorsey turned Huff Gym into "something to remember" when he appeared against the skyline backdrop with his orchestra for the 1946 Sophomore Cotillion.

T. Dorsey proved an outstanding favorite at the dance, which was well planned by Elizabeth Easter, Cotillion Chairman.
One of the gayest social events of the season was the annual Freshman Frolic, planned and presented by the Freshman Council.

Traditionally an informal dance, freshman fell into the gay atmosphere and thoroughly enjoyed their springtime Frolic.
November 1 was the date for the Independent Informal Dance sponsored by W.G.S. and M.I.A. Tommy Dorsey's orchestra and a 20-girl string ensemble played a special concert preceding the dance, that consisted of special instrumental arrangements.

Silver notes on blue crepe paper streamers suspended from the balcony in Huff Gymnasium carried out the theme of the dance. Behind the orchestra on a blue backdrop was a silver caricature of Tommy Dorsey and his trombone.

The chairman of this annual affair was Herbert D. Mendel. It was the first big dance of the year.
Illinois Coeds picked out their choice dates and waltzed to Huff Gym for the Pan-Hellenic Ball, November 23. Dick Jurgens and his dance band provided the favorite melodies of the season... Their background, a large silver candle against a dark blue backdrop.

Celebration of the Fighting Illini Victory over Northwestern for the Big Nine football championship made a delightful occasion to celebrate at the Pan-Hellenic Ball.

The Inter-Fraternity Council presented their annual Sweethearts' Ball at Huff Gym on April 12, 1946. Carrying a bouquet of red roses, Mary Lou Barber, Gamma Phi Beta, was crowned queen of the ball by Dick Shepard, dance committee chairman.

Reigning in the queen's court were Gloria Gould, Sigma Delta Tau, Natalie Eckland, Delta Gamma, Jackie Opp, Pi Beta Phi; and Irene Palenik, Theta Upsilon.

The sparkling music of Alvino Rey's orchestra and his famous singing guitar entertained a capacity crowd. His numbers included his popular rendition of "My Buddy".

ALL AG FIELD DAY

A traditional event on the agriculture campus each fall is All Ag Field Day. The outing is sponsored by the Home Economics Club and the Agriculture Club.

About 500 students leave their books and assignments for an afternoon and evening of fun.

Climaxing the games, dancing and contests is the crowning of the king and queen. Iris Dahlstrom and Lex Xanders are regents for 1946-47.
The Plow Boy Prom is a tradition highlight for the Agriculture campus each spring.
Phaid shirts and cotton dresses made informality the key word for the evening, and everyone abided by it. Box lunches prepared by the coeds for their dates were one of the unique events of the evening.
The orchestra led by Griff Williams proved to be a favorite of the students on the Illinois campus.
The Plow Boy Prom is a cooperative function of the Agriculture and Home Economics clubs.

Reserve officer training on a full postwar scale has been resumed this year with the establishment of several new units, the corps now including Infantry, Field Artillery, Armored Cavalry, Engineers, Signal Corps, Quartermaster Corps, Air Corps, and Transportation Corps. The objective of the program is to preserve and expand the Reserve Officers' Training Corps organization in anticipation of postwar Reserve officer requirements.

The present program is designed to have cadets, during their first two years of participation, take elementary or branch immaterial subjects, thereby deferring until their enrollment in the Advanced Course the study of tactics and technique characteristic of the branch of their selection. Honorably discharged servicemen may be credited with up to two years of elementary training for having previously served with the armed forces, and may be immediately enrolled in the specialized Advanced Course.

The University ROTC, long one of the largest and finest of the country's units, captured national honors last year when its rifle team was proclaimed National...
ROTC Rifle Champions for 1946, and was awarded the silver William Randolph Hearst Trophy. Pershing Rifles, an honorary organization for selected cadets in the Elementary Course, has been reestablished at battalion strength.
The NROTC Unit at the University of Illinois was established on 1 November 1945 in conjunction with the Navy V-12 program. The V-12 program was terminated on 16 June 1946 and the NROTC program began its first peacetime year with the opening of the fall semester in September, 1946.

The mission of the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps is to provide by a permanent system of training and instruction in essential naval subjects at civil educational institutions a source from which qualified officers may be obtained for the Navy and Marine Corps and the Naval Reserve and the Marine Corps Reserve.

In carrying out this mission the NROTC at Illinois intends to give full weight to the dictum of John Paul Jones: "It is by no means enough that an officer of the Navy should be a capable mariner. He must be that, of course, but also a great deal more. He should be, as well, a gentleman of liberal education, refined manner, punctilious courtesy and the nicest sense of personal honor”.

“Regular” students were selected for the Fall Term by the Professor of Naval Science. In future years, however, “Regulars” will enter the NROTC as a result of a nationwide competitive examination. The first such examination was conducted on 18 January 1947.

The program is based upon studies in any field leading to a Baccalaureate degree that the student desires. Included in these studies are a minimum of twenty-four semester hours of Naval Science, plus summer training cruises. These Naval Science courses are designed to teach basic work in essential naval subjects as a foundation upon which further studies and experience afloat, both as a Midshipman and as a junior officer, will result in a capable, educated naval officer.

Athletic Administration
Illinois long will remember 1946 as its year of championships! Competing in ten intercollegiate sports, the Fighting Illini paced Western Conference competition in five — football, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, and tennis. Added to these laurels were victory in the Rose Bowl football game, a national title in track, and third place nationally in wrestling.

We naturally are proud of the fine showings which Illinois teams made in every sport. Not only were our young men champions on the field of play. They were gentlemen, true sportsmen, and splendid representatives of their great University.

We are perhaps more proud of another fact. In 1943, when war calls began to take heavy toll of the young men who were competing in athletics, members of the athletic staff began to look forward to the time when they could return to Illinois. No greater tribute could be made to our program of intercollegiate athletics or to the University as a whole.

Illinois looks confidently toward the future as far as athletics are concerned. This year most of the sports which were discontinued because of the war have been restored to our program. Intramural activities have been increased a hundredfold. With continued development both of our athletic programs and facilities for intercollegiate and recreational sports, we can visualize at an early date an expressed goal—to have every able-bodied male student participating in some form of competitive athletics.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

The Most Valuable Player Award for 1946, made on the basis of a poll of his teammates, was awarded to Alex Agase, guard on the Western Conference Championship eleven.

A three-time All-American by virtue of his herculean defensive achievements and outstanding offensive feats, both from the guard position, Agase was further honored by being named the Most Valuable Player in the Western Conference, an award which has not come to an Illini since it was received by the immortal Red Grange two decades ago.

ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

Herb McKenley, star of the University of Illinois’ undefeated track team, was the winner in 1946 of the Lion Gardiner Award made annually to the outstanding athlete of the year at Illinois.

A formidable array of opponents, all stellar Illini in their own sports, bowed to McKenley in a poll of students and faculty members conducted by the Daily Illini. The winner’s leading claim to the honor lay in his record-setting propensities in the 440 yard event, which culminated in a world record 46.2 in the Western Conference Championships in 1946.

CONFERENCE MEDAL WINNER

The Conference Medal, awarded each year to the Illinois athlete thought best to have combined superior prowess in his athletic endeavor with high proficiency in scholarship, was presented to Robert Phelps in 1946.

A chemical engineering major, Phelps completed his academic training with a 4.2 average. He was a four-letter winner in track, served as team captain in 1946, and holds the Illinois indoor pole vault record of 13 feet, 11 inches, set in 1945.
CHEERLEADERS

School spirit, which has been sadly lacking at the University of Illinois for many years, began to rise to new heights in 1946-47. Many attributed it solely to the rise in the fortunes of the athletic teams; in truth, of no less importance were the tireless efforts of the cheerleaders in attempting to resurrect the glorious spirit of years gone by.

Huge pep rallies, parades which greeted the conquering heroes on their return from important games, and the revival of the Block I cheering section—all played their part in molding the student body together into one vociferous mass, solidly behind the school's every athletic endeavor. The cheerleaders of this first post-war year deserve a great deal of praise and thanks for the added enjoyment of college life that has been and will be fostered by this renaissance of Illini spirit.

Football
Horatio Alger could have told the story of the Fighting Illini of the 1946 gridiron far better than could any writer of the present day. "Strive and Succeed," "Sink or Swim," "Try and Triumph"—all would be fitting titles to describe the magnificent comeback accomplished by the Orange and Blue.

Illinois' title hopes had never seemed brighter than before the opening game. The Illini were conceded by many to be the team to beat in the Big Nine, if not in the entire nation. A scant four weeks later, the dreams of Western Conference glory had never seemed more impossible of realization. The team to beat had been soundly spanked by Notre Dame, edged by Indiana, and made to look almost bad, even in overwhelming victories over Pittsburgh and Purdue.

The trail ahead seemed impossible. Looming largest on the horizon was the contest with Michigan, near-conquerers of mighty Army. But a staunch line and steady backfield, filled with a new determination at Homecoming, began to roll down the comeback trail, defeating Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Ohio State, all in the last quarter, and taking the title-winning game from Northwestern, 20-0.

Loud and bitter were denunciations of the nation's fans as the Illini prepared to meet UCLA in the Rose Bowl on January 1. It was felt that Illinois was definitely over-matched, that undefeated UCLA would turn the usually close contest into a rout. They did—but it was through their weakness and the strength of the Fighting Illini that the score was a lop-sided 45-14, in favor of the Big Nine Champions. A greater combination of offensive and defensive power than that unleashed by the Illini in Pasadena on New Year's Day has seldom been seen on the grid-irons of America. That it was even more—an "upset" victory—makes the feat likely to become one of the leading legends of college football.

Ray Eliot had coached and Mac Wenskunas had captained an Illinois eleven that was, if not the greatest in Illini history, the one most deserving of the title, "Fighting Illini!"
ILLINOIS 45 . . U. C. L. A. 14

Sixty minutes is not a long span of time. Yet, on New Year's Day it took just one hour for the Fighting Illini football team to send a whole nation scrambling from one side of the fence to the other.

At the beginning of that hour, Illinois was a team scorned. Because weather conditions had made effective practice impossible, the Illini were considered an almost hopeless underdog to mighty, undefeated UCLA. Spurned by some Pacific Coast schools, who wanted their champion to meet Army; despised by the Southern strongholds of the sport, irate because the Big Nine was now monopolizing half the lucrative Rose Bowl gate receipts; even chided by fellow Big Nine members, many of whom felt that it was not the best, but the most fortunate of their number who was representing them in the new endeavor—the Illini might well have been feeling rather inadequate as game time approached.

But inadequacy was a feeling discarded early in the season as Illinois started to roll toward the Big Nine championship. There was just one emotion that burned in the hearts of the Fighting Illini as they took the field—an anger that gave birth to a cool confidence and a driving desire not only to win, but to triumph so overwhelmingly that all who doubted them would be silenced.

The resulting explosion resounded from Los Angeles to Bangor, from Seattle to Miami. Unbeaten UCLA had bowed to the Fighting Illini by the unbelievable score of 45-14!

The color-bearers of the Orange and Blue were as unorthodox in their methods of scoring as in the terrific total they attained. Almost as soon as the game began the "second-raters" had scored, Perry Moss passing to Julie Rykovich on the first play, to set up a touchdown three plays later.

Again in the second quarter, when trailing 7-6, Illinois lined up in an unusual spread formation and Buddy Young raced deep into UCLA territory. He then scored, to give the Illini a lead they never relinquished. And two of the touchdowns the victors made were of the type that had brought them the title of "opportunist" during the season—pass interceptions by Russ Steger and Stan Green. Completing the Illini total of forty-five points were touchdowns by Paul Patterson and Perry Moss, and three extra points by Don Macchtle.

Illinois was superior to UCLA in every phase of the game. The larger Bruin forward wall was pushed around all afternoon by the inspired Illini linemen, their backs were crushed at every turn and their vaunted passing attack was all but ineffective. On the other hand, every Illinois player blocked, tackled, ran, passed or kicked like an All-American. Indeed, late in the fourth quarter, when UCLA had advanced to the Illinois five-yard line, on a penalty, the victor's fourth team stiffened and held the Bruin stars without a gain for four downs.

Ninety thousand stunned fans looked at the scoreboard in disbelief as they prepared to leave the stadium. Then began the quick scramble onto the Illini bandwagon which spread to the four corners of the nation. The team that had been jeered was now praised to the skies and feted all the way from Los Angeles to Champaign. And their loyal fans rejoiced in the realization that, in just sixty minutes of playing time, the Fighting Illini had written a page in sports history which should not be surpassed for many years.

Won 8 — Lost 2

Illinois Bee Squad, 1946

The season's opener, its final score notwithstanding, was a bitter disappointment for followers of the Illini. The team of stars which had been boomed to the skies for months before the opening kick-off was not performing according to notices.

Writers had cried for sympathy for Illinois' opponents, who had to face all-Americans Julie Rykovich and Alex Agase, the incredibly swift Buddy Young, the entire line from a great Illinois team of 1942 which had won a championship for Purdue while in Marine training there, Perry Moss, Bill Huber, and a host of others whose names read like a Who's Who of Football.

Lowly Pitt was unimpressed. Indeed, they were primed for an upset, and only the depth of the Illinois squad denied them. In the first two minutes, Buddy Young had scored for the Illini; for the next twenty-eight minutes, the Orange and Blue were in the shadows of their own goal posts. Pitt tied the score with a long march and threatened again and again, and the half ended with the count 7-7.

Illinois reserves entered the game early in the second half, and, finally finding some scoring punch, ran up a presentable score. Art Dufelmeier sparkled for the Illini, as occasionally did Young and Patterson, but the lowering of Illinois' prestige, which was to continue for several weeks, had begun.
NOTRE DAME 26; ILLINOIS 6

In 1946 a great football rivalry was brought to an end. At least for the next few years, the annual Notre Dame-Illinois game, one of the biggest attractions in the nation, will be no more. 1946 offered a fitting end to that great series. A record-breaking throng of over 75,000 was on hand to see the first big game of the season. Celebrities were everywhere, and hosts of Irish and Illini fans had gathered in Memorial Stadium from all over the country, attracted by the pre-game build-up of both teams. Many hoped to see the color-bearers of the Orange and Blue emerge with their first victory over the Irish in sports history.

In that, they were disappointed; the record books still contain the unbelievable fact that Illinois never has bested Notre Dame. The game, however, was no disappointment. Two colossi of college football, one eventually to be heralded as the top team in the country, the other to emerge from a long uphill fight as Champions of the Western Conference and one of the four best teams in national ratings, slugged it out toe to toe for nineteen minutes. The Illini had a slight edge over this period of time, and when Tom Gallagher made a perfect kick to the Irish one yard line, the wearers of the green were really in trouble. Two plays later, however, the complexion of the game was changed completely, as Emil Sitko raced eighty-three yards to set up a Notre Dame score.

The sudden turn of events seemed to knock the spirit out of Illinois' drives and the tenacity from its defense, and the Illini were never in command again. The Irish counted three more times, once on a power drive, once by capitalizing on an Illinois fumble, and once with an assist by Lou Donho, who, attempting to intercept a pass, succeeded only in batting it into the hands of the receiver.

Illinois' lone tally came late in the fourth period on a long pass to Rykovich to Heiss, offering but little consolation for a sound defeat.
ILLINOIS 43; PURDUE 7

Bouncing back from the crushing defeat of the week before, the Illini scored almost at will against an out-classed Purdue eleven. The expected passing duel between Illinois’ Perry Moss and Purdue’s Bob DeMoss never materialized, for all the touchdowns save one were scored on the ground.

But Moss was definitely the outstanding player of the day, cleverly mixing his plays and taking advantage of a Boilermaker weakness to execute ten successful quarterback sneaks.

This game was indeed a preview of what the Illini had to offer later in the season. Stellar defensive work by Sam Zatkoff and Ike Owens completely smothered Purdue’s end runs and kick returns. The center of the line was invulnerable, the pass defense almost so. The Illini’s biggest edge was in kicking. Versatile Dwight Eddleman finished the day with the incredible average of fifty-four yards per punt, and time after time put Purdue in such a spot that Illinois touchdowns soon resulted. He also ploughed and sprinted for the longest run of the day, fifty-six yards to a touchdown.
The Illinois collection of veterans of many varied football and military teams still was not operating as a smooth unit when the Illini met the defending champion, Indiana, early in the season.

It seemed, for the third time of the year, that title hopes were doomed to die from that mysterious malady of 1945, which had seen strong starts but weak finishes cost them game after game. For the first few minutes, it was Illinois' ball game, as a pass from Moss to Patterson was completed for an easy score. But the Hoosiers came back strong later in the quarter and again in the final stanza, led by Ben Raimondi, with a stellar passing display that netted two touchdowns.

After the original lapse, the Indiana defense never again faltered, and the final result seemed inevitable even before the game-winning score. Time and time again the Illinois goal line was threatened, but each time the stubborn forward wall of the Orange and Blue gave a preview of its championship form and hurled the invaders back. It remained for Raimondi, often seemingly reckless with his passes, to abandon ground play in the final stanza and take to the air with a barrage that confounded the Illini pass defenders and culminated in the fourth period winning tally.
The Illini have risen to unbelievable heights on Homecoming Day. History was made in the days of Red Grange when a great Michigan team was pushed around at will by an even greater Illinois eleven. Years later, the Orange and Blue, in one of its weakest seasons, fashioned its answer to those who said Harmon of Michigan was greater than had been Grange, toppling the Wolverines in perhaps the greatest upset of all time.

The capacity crowd of Homecomers in 1946 could not have asked for a more thrilling addition to Illini Homecoming history. You can mark down Don Maechtle as the boy who fashioned the Illinois Big Ten and Rose Bowl Championships. A slip of his usually unerring toe kept the Illini from tying the game late in the final period. Had this not occurred, his team-mates would no doubt have settled for a tie. The collision between Alex Agase and Art Dufelmier added to the victory, as their painful exit from the game gave the Illini even more fighting heart than had their presence.

The spirit and drive shown in this game proved the turning point in what might have otherwise been a mediocre season. Buddy Young returned to form, taking passes and cutting off tackle for many long gains. Perry Moss came through with stellar passing; Julie Rykovitch at last rediscovered himself on the Illinois gridiron; fierce line play by first-string members and particularly substitutes such as Babe Serpico and Lou Agase stopped one Badger threat on the goal line and many others deep in Illinois territory.

Comebacks such as this happen only in books . . . . and in Memorial Stadium, where the Fighting Illini spirit refuses to admit defeat!
The accent was definitely on defense one October day in Ann Arbor, as the Illini disposed of their toughest competitor along the title trail, 13-9.

Michigan was hammering at the Illinois goal all day, but was able to garner only one touchdown and a safety. In the fourth alone, the Wolverines had twelve plays from within the twenty-yard line. Each time they were stopped a few feet closer to the goal; each time it seemed that the Illini forward wall could not hold again. These three drives were halted on the seventeen, the eight, and the four, the last with but one minute to play, and the Illini then stalled the closing minute for a victory.

Paul Patterson drew first blood in the second quarter when, dropping back to pass and finding no receivers open, he spurted and dodged sixteen yards for a score. Twice he seemed trapped; once he was broken away by a well-placed block; the other escape was accomplished by his own slippery qualities. The Wolverines came back in the same quarter to tie the score, and the game continued on even terms until midway in the third quarter. Then Sam Zatkoff, a Michigan Illini having his own personal Homecoming, intercepted a Michigan pass and ran fifty-two yards with the game-winning tally.

The fourth quarter followed with constant difficulty for the Illini. Eddie-man, deep his end zone, had a punt blocked for a Michigan safety. The rest of the story was that of a brilliant Illinois line, Babe Serpico, Alex Agase, Joe Buscemi, Lou Agase, Jim Valek, Bob Cunz, Mastrangeli, John Wrenn and Vern Seliger, far different from the starting line, hurling back a dozen vicious Michigan attempts.
The game with Iowa, which put the Illini in undisputed possession of first place, was one of yeoman defense and sputtering offense, of intercepted passes and a fourth quarter come-back.

It looked for the entire first half as if the Illini were at the end of the title rope. An alert, aggressive, keyed-up Hawkeye eleven marched down the field time and again, taking advantage of every Illinois slip, and threatening to set up a score on four separate drives. Three times pass interceptions, one each by Ray Floreck, Bernie Krueger and Dwight Eddleman—the last deep in his end zone—saved the day; on the other, the stubborn Illini line halted attempted plunges.

The final story was one of superior reserve power. The Hawkeyes were rapidly tiring as the third period drew to a close; and the signs of an Illinois victory were beginning to be seen. Early in the fourth period Eddleman started the winning drive with a fifteen-yard punt return. Julie Rykovich and Buddy Young added valuable yardage as the march gained momentum. Perry Moss sandwiched in two short passes to Bill Heiss to break the monotony, and from there on it was Russ Steger's ball game. Three times he plunged the necessary yardage for first downs; he gained twenty-six yards of the sixty-eight yard drive, all at crucial times; and four of the last five attempts were his, the final one ending in a score.

The Illini were in command the rest of the game, except for one Hawkeye surge which died in mid-field as the game ended.
The courage and strength of the Illinois line comes from a bottomless reservoir! That fact was written indelibly on the minds of all present as the Illini battered their way toward the title, deep in their own territory time and again, for the fourth consecutive week.

These linemen held Ohio's great Joe Whisler on the half-foot line at a time when victory hung in the balance. They held him again, inches away from important first downs, on the four, the fifteen, the nineteen, and the twenty-seven. Only once did Ohio score.

The wind was a big factor in that measure of success the Buckeyes attained. The Illini, forced to punt time and again from their own end zone, saw the ball pushed against that wind but twenty to thirty yards, and the lineman would have their job to do all over again.

The first Illini score was set up by a flat pass to Buddy Young, who twisted and turned along the sideline in as fine a tight-rope performance as has ever been seen in Memorial Stadium, escaping tackle after tackle, and finally being driven out of bounds on the two-yard line. Later in the second quarter, Sam Zatkoff broke through and blocked an Ohio punt in the end zone, for a safety.

In the final minutes of the third quarter, with the wind again assisting the Buckeyes, the Illini were driven back once more into their own territory. Ohio then attempted a flat pass, with the game in the balance, but Julie Rykovich intercepted it on his own one yard line and raced through a sea of mud ninety-nine yards to score the clinching touchdown.
Playing its best game of 1946, a great fighting Illini team completely overwhelmed the Wildcats, 20-0. Two precedents fell by the wayside when the final gun sounded for the victorious Illini. This was the first conference championship for the University of Illinois since 1928. And it was the first time since the start of the long uphill climb to the championship, dating back to the final period of the Wisconsin game, that a fourth quarter rally or goal-line stand was not necessary to victory.

Perhaps the greatest difference between the team that had started the season and the Western Conference Champions was the fine blocking which was shown in this game. This enabled the Illini to shake loose their vaunted sprinters for fifteen long runs, ranging from eleven to fifty-three yards. Art Dufelmeier was the individual star of the day, gaining one hundred twenty-three yards in ten attempts. But Buddy Young’s fabulous speed was effectively unleashed; Perry Moss and Bernie Krueger quarterbacked the team as never before; and Dike Eddleman played his best ground game of the year.

The Wildcats never threatened to score. Indeed, they gained only one hundred yards in the whole afternoon—this in spite of the fact that until this game they had led the conference in rushing.

This victory gained for the Illini, in addition to many Big Ten honors, the Rose Bowl bid, and with it the chance to elevate itself into UCLA’s fourth place national rating.
There are many in this nation who think that a legend was shattered in 1947. The fabulous Whiz Kids had returned to the college hardwood, and with them had come unbelievable tales of pre-war prowess. Blind to the fact that the returning members of the greatest team in basketball history were four years beyond that magnificent season of 1943, admiring fans were unwavering in their rash predictions of an even greater year in the golden post-war era of Illinois sports.

Even as the season opened with a number of one-sided victories, it slowly became evident that the Whiz Kids lost some measure of their old greatness. Then, on that fateful Western trip in December, as the walls came tumbling down on an erratic Illinois team, doubts as to the truthfulness of the legendary tales of glory of that last pre-war season began to appear in the minds of the nation's fans.

Those of us who saw the Whiz Kids at the peak of their career are loud and bitter in our denunciation of these doubters. If perfection can be attained on the basketball court, that team had accomplished the feat. Every move was sheer poetry in action, whether individual attainment or unmatched teamwork, the outstanding example of which was the most perfectly played game in history, when the Illini defeated a great Northwestern team by more than forty points.

True, in 1947 the Whiz Kids had lost their greatness of years gone by. But let it not be said that such greatness never existed!

The 1947 basketball season would have been considered moderately successful in ordinary years. The Illini won fourteen, lost six, and tied for second place in the conference with Indiana, each having a record of eight and four. But in this era of undisputed championships and outstanding Illinois teams, it seemed almost a dismal failure. For the Whiz Kids had returned and failed to whiz as of old.

The season opened with perhaps the easiest game of the schedule, a 87-39 win over Cornell College. Although the fans were treated to some expert ball handling, those who had seen the Whiz Kids at their peak were uncomfortably aware that this was not the kind of basketball that would win a championship.

The next game was something more of a test and the Illini looked rather impressive in winning 73-40. But the following week they displayed their erratic nature as a stalling Pittsburgh team slowed them to a walk. It was not until the second team entered the lineup for Illinois that the final score of 58-31 was attained.

With this unimpressive series of wins at home under their belt, the Illini started on a trip west to meet equally unimpressive Missouri and a highly touted California team, toast of the Pacific Coast. In the first road game, Missouri was primed for what seemed at the time to be the upset of the year. The Whiz Kids had not lost a game to a college team since 1942. Although obviously the smoother team, the Illini were completely outflanked and went down to defeat 55-50.

Illinois bounced back the next game, however, as a great California team bowed 58-36. Fired by the loss to Missouri, the Whiz Kids set a terrific first half pace and were leading 23-2 at the end of nine minutes play. This was one of the best exhibitions that the Illini of 1947 made, and it appeared for twenty-four hours, that the Whiz Kids had begun to whiz again. But in the second game of the series, an enraged California team struck back 53-35, to even the series. Returning home, Illinois won its last warm-up game before the opening of the conference race, downing Nebraska, 72-37.

The next game was a bitter disappointment for followers of the Illini, and a day of vindication for Wisconsin fans. The last four times the Badgers, defending champions in 1941, had met the Whiz Kids, they had been dealt ignominious defeats. Jack Smiley, who had made a great name for himself before the war by holding the great John Kotz of Wisconsin scoreless or nearly so time after time, was now completely unable to shackle Bob Cook of the 1947 Badgers, who scored twenty points to lead his team to a 53-47 victory.

The Mexico game, extremely lop-sided with the record-breaking score of 94-36, was followed by one of the lowest-scoring games of the season, a 34-31 defeat at the hands of Minnesota. The Illini probably looked worse in that game than in any other, averaging only .156 on their shooting and being outrebounded, two to one.

The Illinois team began to pick up momentum as the new year got under way. Northwestern bowed, 55-40, in a truly team victory, and Ohio State also felt the sting of defeat, 61-42. In the latter game, Smiley led the scoring with twenty-two points, and contributed to the stellar guarding exhibited by the entire team as Ohio made but one field goal in the first half.

The Whiz Kids were definitely on the upsurge as they met Wisconsin with the last title hopes of the Illini at stake. Again they looked almost like the team of old as Smiley held Cook to five points. Menke scored thirteen, and the team as a unit worked more smoothly than at any other time in the season, to score a decisive upset, 63-37.
This was followed by a close victory over Ohio State, 59-58, in which the Illini were forced to come from behind in the closing minutes to avoid defeat. But in the next game, the title pursuit was again dealt a savage blow, as Purdue stunned the Illini, 51-42.

Smiley turned in a magnificent job of guarding high-scoring Murray Wier, as the Illini stopped Iowa, 45-36. And the erratic Illini were once again a great team the following week, defeating Indiana in the last home game for the Whiz Kids, 59-50.

Title hopes were once again being revived late in the season as Wisconsin started to waver and the Illini skimmed by Northwestern, 52-51, Gene Vance tipping in his own rebound in the last seconds of the game, and rallied to defeat Michigan, 45-36.

But the finale of the Whiz Kids in collegiate basketball was blemished. Although rallying time and again to close almost hopeless gaps, the Illini lost to Indiana, 48-41, as Andy Phillip surpassed the old three-year Big Nine scoring record by four points.

The Illini of 1947 had not been a truly great team. But due to the concerted effort of the Whiz Kids, Fred Green, Bob LaVoy, Bill Erickson, Walt Kirk, Jack Burnmaster, and many other reserves, it was an outstanding team in an unusual year.
Robert Phelps
Captain

A galaxy of colorful stars, broken records by the score, overwhelming victories over teams that would have won meet after meet hands down in any ordinary year, the unstinted praise of the nation's sports writers—all these memories and many more will remain in the minds of Illini track fans as they think back over their school's athletic prowess in the latter 1940's. Certainly the best group of track men in Illinois history was performing for the Orange and Blue in the spring of 1946—there were few who doubted that this was the greatest collegiate track team in the history of the sport.

In 1946 the Illini lost not a single meet. Sports history was written as Coach Leo Johnson sagely split his squad at the season's openers, the Drake and Penn Relays, and, using his super-abundance of material to the utmost, swept in the lion's share of titles at both meets.

Taking their schedule of four dual meets without losing stride, the Illini proceeded to conquer the best the Western Conference, the entire Midwest, and the nation could offer, scoring victories over Ohio State in the Big Ten meet, Wisconsin in the Central Collegiate, and powerful Southern California in the NCAA.
Any who still doubted Leo Johnson as the greatest track coach in the nation after 1945 were surely convinced of that fact in 1946. This man, who had in 1937 started the uphill task of putting the Illini back on top of the conference in track and field, after many dark years in the '30's, finally attained his goal.

Narrowly missing conference crowns in 1943 and 1944, his team turned the 1945 outdoor meet into a rout and returned in 1946 to trounce all opponents and emerge as the top team in the nation. The Illini were in the championship headlines for the first time since the Whiz Kids had put them there in basketball in 1943.

Johnson's task was not an easy one. His was not the route whereby stars flocked to his side and performed in a championship manner while he watched. It was necessary to discover talent, to revive interest in track at Illinois, and to build for the future. It required years of unwavering perseverance before results were seen.

Hard work, a great feeling for sports and sportsmanship, endless drive, true ability in coaching, and a justifiable pride as he sees his boys return with laurels piled high—all these make him one of the greatest coaches the University of Illinois has ever known. For this we pay tribute to Leo Johnson.
If true greatness in athletics is measured by the praise of one's contemporaries, the cinder-path Illini of 1946 were truly great, as individuals and as an aggregate. The plaudits of the crowd, of their vanquished foes, and of the nation's writers still ring in the air.

An outstanding track team must, of necessity, be composed of a group of stars. There was Herb McKenley, brightest in the galaxy, breaker of records in every meet, holder of the Lion Gardner Award as the Athlete of the Year, and two- and three-event winner week after week. The squad boasted Bob Rehberg, always the victor in the most grueling of races, the half mile and mile, and always with the stamina to run a brilliant leg on the record-holding mile relay team.

And it had George Walker, whose legs carried him to many a double victory in the hurdle events, Bill Mathis and Jack Pierce, sprinters extraordinary, John and Vic Twomey, always point winners in the two-mile run, and Carl Ockert, who, although he cracked the Big Ten 440 record wide open, had to be content with a second place behind McKenley.

In the field events, the one Illini "weakness", there was versatile Dike Eddleman, usually the victor in the high jump, and often using the magnificent spring in his legs to bring in broad jump points, and Bob Richards and Captain Bob Phelps, rarely missing pole vault honors.

All these stellar performers in their own right; on any ordinary track team they would have been lionized to the extreme. Yet, here, among many individual stars competing for glory in their own right, there existed a camaraderie, a team spirit that captured the hearts of the fans everywhere.

The outdoor season opened with Illini victory in the traditional Drake Relays. Shattering all precedent and stealing headlines throughout the country, Coach Leo Johnson accomplished the feat with only part of his squad—the so-called "second team". Travelling to Penn with his stars, he saw them fashion the other half of an amazing double sweep. Only by disqualification of the 880 team did the Illini miss winning every relay at Franklin Field, capturing the sprint medley, the 440 and the mile. These, with Eddleman's victory in the high jump and numerous minor places, gave Illinois leading honors.

The Illini then travelled to West Point to meet Army, Dartmouth, and Columbia in a four-way meet, and overcame their discrepancies in the weights by such overwhelming victories in the other events that Army was bested, 80 to 48, with the others far behind. Double wins by Walker, McKenley, and Eddleman paced the Illini. Herb smashing two records on the way and Dike tying the high jump mark.

Illinois continued its record-breaking ways as it played host to Purdue a week later with a crushing 90-32 win. Thirteen marks were erased, by Illini, as Mathis set new times in the sprints, McKenley broke three records, including the Big Ten, with a :46.7 quarter, Walker tied those existing in the low hurdles. and Eddleman smashed three with a 6-foot 6\% inch high jump.

Probably the toughest dual meet of the season was next on the schedule, but the color bearers of the Orange and Blue scarcely paused in their trek to the national crown to take Michigan into camp, 80-42. The Illini took first in every running event, scored a slam in the pole vault, and won first in the high and broad jumps, to crush the Wolverines before a record throng.

Tuning up for the Western Conference meet, Illinois took the measure of a strong Minnesota squad, 75-41, with nine firsts and a clean sweep in the dashes and the mile run.

June 1, 1946, dawned cloudy and chilly, and many a disappointed fan moaned that the records were safe and that the Big Ten track finals that day would be dull and uninteresting. Nothing could have been farther from the truth. As the field events were being completed and the fans started leaving Memorial Stadium to warmer and drier spots, the loudspeaker boomed: “Today has vividly demonstrated the fact that rain does not hurt a track! Today the Fighting Illini from the University of Illinois have rewritten the record book, smashing fourteen records in six events!” Illinois Herb McKenley had broken the world’s record, and the Big Ten, Stadium and Illinois marks for the 440 in the unbelievable time of :46.2. The Illinois and Stadium times had fallen when McKenley took the 220 in :20.6, as Walker leaped to victory in the high hurdles in :14.2, and when Rehberg ran a 4:17.3 mile. And new Big Ten, Illinois, and Stadium marks were set when the magnificent mile relay team, made up of Gonzales, Rehberg, Ockert and McKenley, went the distance in 3:12.4.

The Illini thus took the conference crown with 66½ points, more than double the total of their nearest rival, Ohio State.

Two weeks later, Illinois travelled to Milwaukee for the Central Collegiate Track meet. Not competing at full strength, the squad still was able to mark up a score three times as great as Wisconsin, the second place team, as Rehberg, running a great half and mile, won the John P. Nicholson trophy for the outstanding performance of the meet. McKenley was withdrawn from the 440, as his deserving teammate, Carl Ockert, gained the first quarter mile win of his collegiate career.

The NCAA meet had been boomed for weeks as a two-team dual between favored Illinois and Southern California. On paper, the writers had the teams figured even, and 14,000 spectators turned out to see the expected duel. In that they were disappointed, for the Illini rolled up 78 points to 43 for the Trojans. McKenley won the 440 and 220, while Mathis furnished a surprise by defeating Lloyd LaBeach of Wisconsin, his three-time conquerer and Big Ten Champion. Obviously pointing for the U.S.C. athletes, the Illini entries bested the Trojans in every event but two.

Baseball
The 1946 baseball Illini, comprising a handful of men back from the 1945 squad, a few others resuming collegiate careers interrupted by war, and the rest rookies, getting their first taste of college competition, emerged from a twenty-one game schedule with thirteen wins and eight losses.

Starting strong in conference play, while accomplishing such feats as snapping Michigan’s two-year, 27-game winning streak and dropping powerful Indiana twice in a single week-end, Illinois saw its title hopes go glimmering at the season’s end as cancellations caused by rain, and a brilliant pitching job at Iowa, gave the Illini a Big Ten record of six wins and three losses, for second place behind Wisconsin.

Although brilliant pitching was the rule, occasional lapses in fielding and impotence at the plate were the outstanding weaknesses which were responsible for several losses. The calibre of the opposition, which included professional teams such as the Danville Dodgers and the St. Joseph Autos, was the highest in many years.

The success of the baseball team in 1946 did its part in presaging the renaissance of the Fighting Illini as the outstanding power in the Western Conference.

Total Record: Won 13; Lost 8
Long in the Illinois Athletic Hall of Fame will live the names of the Number One battery of the 1946 baseball season, Marv Rotblatt and Lee Eilbracht. In close pursuit for any individual honors there might be for the year would be Al Scharf, Jim Devero and Bob Wakefield—but such thoughts seemed out of place at the end of a very successful season made possible by outstanding team play in almost every game.

The Illini opened by trouncing Chanute Field, 16-4, as Rotblatt, pitching the first five innings, held the Planesmen hitless. The game was highlighted by displays of power hitting, 1945’s most sadly lacking commodity, on the part of Wakefield and Roy Wiedow, and a Brooklyn-style base-line exhibition and stellar defensive work on the part of Eilbracht.

The second game, with Valparaiso, resulted in a 10-0 victory for Illinois, with Scharf allowing only three hits. Errors and walks given up by the gentlemen from Indiana stretched the Illini hit total of six into ten runs. Three days later, with barely enough time to recover from this base-running exercise, St. Louis University put the Illini through their paces again, allowing the locals twelve runs on ten hits for a final score of 12-1.

The conference season opened with a farewell series with nine young men from the University of Chicago, making their last appearance in Champaign-Urbana as members of the Western Conference. The Illini, no sentimentalists, turned in a 7-1 victory the first day, and followed it a day later with a 16-0 trouncing, which featured the first home run of the season, by Bill Butkovich. Scharf and Rotblatt shared pitching honors, each allowing three hits in his game. Those two pitchers, although held in high esteem in collegiate circles, were completely unable to cope with the invasion of the Danville Dodgers, a professional club in the Three-Eye League. Their teammates, shackled by the pro team’s hurlers, collected only nine hits in the two games, and went down to defeat for the first time of the young season, 13-5 and 11-0.

Illinois rebounded later in the week with an 8-5 win over Ohio State, behind the six-hit pitching of Rotblatt, to take the lead in the Big Ten. The little left-hander batted his own game into the victory column with two timely hits for three runs, following the lead of Bob Possehl, who drove in four of the tallies. But the Illini followed this game with their first loss to collegiate competition as the Buckeyes turned the tables with an 8-7 decision on a homer in the ninth inning by an Ohio rookie.

Many fans thought the series the following week would decide the conference championship, for the displays of power thus far had come from Champaign and Ann Arbor. The largest crowd of the season was attracted to Illinois field to see the Illini and Michigan split a double-header, 6-8 and 4-3. Two scalps should have been hanging in the home team dressing room, for it was through four Illinois errors, setting up six runs, that the Wolverines were able to win the first game and run their winning streak to twenty-seven in a row. Eilbracht was the individual star of the afternoon, with six hits in seven trips to the plate, three perfect throws to second base to cut down potential steals, and credit for the winning run in the tenth inning of the second game—batted in by Les Miller. Scharf was the winning pitcher as the Illini snipped the Michigan string of wins in the second game, allowing no runs after the fifth inning.

The Chanute Field Planesmen again travelled to Urbana in vain, as a lineup liberally sprinkled with reserves took their measure, 12-2. The end of the week saw the Illini unhappily watching the rain at Lafayette, knowing full well that the cancellation of the two-game series with the weak Boilermakers of Purdue would inevitably cut their title chances.

Washington University was the next to feel the sting of the Illini batsmen, as the Illinois nine collected ten hits, three by Kaires and a triple by Wakefield, for a 4-1 decision.

Another visit from a professional team, the St. Joseph Autos, proved too much for the collegians, 9-6. Although the Illini outhit the pros, leaving fourteen men on base proved a costly practice, as did granting nine bases on balls by three Illinois pitchers.

Conference play was resumed with a double win over powerful Indiana, rated as perhaps an even more astounding feat than the snapping of the Michigan win streak. The first game, a 10-6 decision, was won in a sixth inning rally led by Devero, Malley and Wakefield. The second was again Pitcher Rotblatt's day, as he held the Hoosiers hitless until the eighth inning, and drove in what proved to be the winning run early in the game.

Chanute Field gave the Illini a surprise in their third meeting of the season by administering a 5-2 spanking, aided by four ill-placed errors by Illinois infielders and the invincibility of a star pitcher, Don Van Nest, with men on base. He allowed nineteen opponents to reach first base, but managed to strand seventeen of them before they completed the circuit.

Travelling to Iowa the next week, Illinois faced the necessity of winning both games to keep title hopes alive. The title trail ended in Iowa City, for the Hawk-eyes, intent on a second-place tie with the Illini, hammered Scharf for seven hits and four runs, and a 5-1 victory. The second game was rained out, leaving Illinois with a conference record of 6-3, for second place.

The season ended with a three game series with Great Lakes. The sailors dropped the first decision 4-0, Rotblatt fanning twelve, and the second, 6-4, with homers by Wakefield and Devero furnishing the victory margin. But they were able to spoil the Illini finale the next day, when Scharf walked four men in the eighth to bring the score to 5-4, Great Lakes.

Eilbracht was honored by his teammates at season’s end by being chosen most valuable player and captain-elect for 1947. He also won the Big Ten batting championship with a .484 average. Rotblatt, who forgot that pitchers are not supposed to hit, took batting honors for all games, finishing more than 60 points above his nearest teammate, Eilbracht.

Coach Wallie Roettger, looking back on a successful season, can also look forward to 1947 with the realization that all of this year’s squad plus a host of returnees should be a strong contender.
Other Varsity Sports
1946 was not a banner year for Illinois golf. The team made but an average showing throughout the season, winning three dual meets while losing five, and slumped to ninth place in the conference meet, three strokes out of sixth, with an erratic putting display.

The team lacked balance, for beyond the first three men the play both on the fairways and on the greens was very unsteady and unpredictable. Frank Richart was the outstanding golfer of the year for Illinois, invariably leading his teammates by several strokes, and always comparing favorably with the best the opposition could offer.

Won 3 — Lost 5
Illinois' netmen of 1946 were probably the most outstanding in the history of the Fighting Illini. Although possessing two of the top sixteen players in the nation, as demonstrated in the NCAA when Roger Downs and Ben Migdow advanced to the final strata of eliminations, the team balance was no less important in the season's success.

The team, coached by Howie Braun, swept its ten dual meets without a loss and went into the Big Ten Meet the heavy favorite. Migdow suffered his first defeat of the season in the Number Two position, and Downs was eliminated in his quest for the Number One championship. But the lesser lights of the team paved the way to the victory as Captain Ray Von Spreckelsen and Mel Randoll won the Numbers Four and Six Titles, respectively, and the Gates-Migdow and Steers-Randoll combinations took two of the three doubles crowns.

In the NCAA Meet the Illini could not hope to win the team crown against such powerhouses as Southern California and Texas. Concentrating on individual play, Migdow and Downs advanced to the quarter-finals in doubles and both reached the final play-offs in singles.
FENCING

Maxwell R. Garret

The Illini competed in fencing in 1947 as defending champions from 1943, the last year in which the Big Ten recognized an intercollegiate champion. Having also won the title in 1942, and having several promising newcomers in a year when every team was composed almost entirely of untried men, the Illini had bright hopes of annexing an unprecedented crown.

The only returning letter man was Lee Lipson, immediately joined on the varsity squad by Bill Abraham and John Blazick, who were to get their first taste of intercollegiate competition. Warren Sullivan, who started the season at a managerial post, so successfully absorbed the teaching of Coach Mac Garret that he won a position on the starting nine, at Number Three saber. The success of Illinois' 1947 fencing team was to depend upon just such rapid improvement of the newcomers in the sport.

The fortunes of the cross country team followed the trend set by other sports in the Illinois post-war boom. The Illini, who had occupied a lowly sixth place berth in 1945, and who were not thought to be particularly packed with power for the new season, completed a moderately successful year by taking third place, behind favored Indiana and Wisconsin, in the Big Nine meet. They were paced by John Twomey, who won third place in the conference event, after having won three consecutive first places in triangulars and the Loyola Invitational Meet.

The schedule opened with a defeat for Illinois, in a triangular meet with Wisconsin and Indiana, followed by a second place rating behind Indiana and over Purdue the following week. In the final warm-up for the Big Nine run, the Illini looked impressive in winning the Loyola Invitational, by a large margin.

In addition to Twomey, the team's undisputed leader, team balance was furnished by Clarence Dunn, Bruce Brenneman and Joe Welyki, who consistently aided the Illinois cause.
Illinois' 1947 Gymnastics Team faced the world with a fine tradition to maintain. Before the sport became a war casualty in 1942, the Illini had never finished worse than third in the Big Ten. Included in their impressive record were six conference titles, seventy dual victories in eighty-four starts, and the only National AAU title ever won by a college team. Coach Hartley Price, also back from the war, faced the problem this year of building a squad that could successfully defend its 1942 title. On hand to help in this difficult task was a squad of nineteen men, including Joe and John Fina, carrying on a long family tradition in Illinois gymnastics; Gay Hughes, also a very promising newcomer; and Don Von Ebers, who gave valuable depth to the squad.

VARSITY SWIMMING

Illinois approached the 1947 swimming season with steadily rising prospects that promised a much better record than that of the sixth place squad in 1946. Team balance was promised as versatile John Haulenbeek, always a winner in the sprints or breast stroke, and sprinters Richard Houcek and Marvin Wahlstrom, returning from 1946, were joined by veterans Robert Gerometta, the most promising young swimmer of pre-war days, Henry Mautner, sprint specialist, Don Scherwat, distance swimmer, and Bert Seyler, breast stroke star. Even further depth and balance was given by Dave Jensen and William Keller, backstrokers, Robert Wulfort, Carl Kratz and Wilbur Huffstutler, divers, and William Baugher, a transfer student with great abilities both in the distance and sprints.

VARSITY WRESTLING

The Western Conference's defending champions seemed to have great possibilities of repeating their 1946 success as they faced a difficult schedule in 1947. All the veterans of the previous campaign but two were on hand for the new year, as Lou Kachirobas, Joe Garcia, Ken Marlin, Norm Anthonisen, Dave Shapiro and Chuck Gottfried greeted Coach Harold Kenney, recently returned from service.

The greatest depth of material in many years was in evidence, as Bill Mann, Dean Ryan, Lynn Marcus, Bob Pigozzi, Stan Lee, Leonard Feldman, Gilbert Gaumer and Arthur Archer were pushing the letter-men to the limit when the season opened. With such an array of stars, a brilliant showing was inevitable.

The Department of Intramural and Recreational Sports began in 1946 where it had left off before the war, and before the year was over had started a rise to a peak of achievement far beyond the fondest dreams of those planning its growth in pre-war days.

Illinois received national recognition for its outstanding Intramural program early in January, largely as a result of many innovations which were introduced during the past year. A sportsmanship trophy has been added to the huge I. M. collection to foster a better spirit of fair play; rules clinics have been held to discuss new or little known phases of a sport’s technicalities; an officials’ club was organized to improve the caliber of officiating; and many purely recreational activities were introduced to play their part in helping the overflow of students now on campus to get more out of college life at Illinois.

Dr. Hartley Price, back at his old post of Intramural Director, together with Senior Managers John Hull and Robert Mueller, has mapped a long range program for even greater expansion than in 1946, which saw over 6,000 students take part in 26 sports and other recreational events.

Many were the innovations brought into the Intramural and Recreational Sports program in 1946 to assist in meeting the onslaught of more participants than have ever before registered in IMREC activities.

To further the cause of fair play and good sportsmanship, which operate under a decided strain when the competition increases four to six-fold, as it did this year, a travelling sportsmanship trophy was instituted. The team that has had the trophy in its possession for the most times over a two-year period—the right to possession being determined by a poll of the opponents of each team at the close of each sport's season—will gain permanent ownership. This trophy proved a valuable incentive, and examples of bad sportsmanship were at a minimum during the year.

The Intramural Officials' Association was organized in 1946, with a membership of over thirty members, to assure uniform officiating in all the Intramural contests. This club met often, discussed the rules of the various sports, and monitored all games in the major sports.

The newly organized Rules Clinics did its part in helping the officials in their duties and in fostering good sportsmanship. Before each team tournament was to begin, the Intramural Department sponsored discussion and demonstration groups to acquaint all participants with recent rule changes.

IMREC, in conjunction with The Daily Illini, also carried out even further the pre-war All-Star selections, awarding certificates of merit to athletes in Fall and Spring softball, football, volleyball and basketball.

Coeducational activities were rejuvenated in the fall of 1946, as IMREC came out of war-time dormancy. The revival of the annual turkey run, in which each sorority and organized women's residence hall is represented by men from the various men's houses, was won by Phi Sigma Sigma, for whom Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity ran. Mixed gymnastic activities and splash parties were also planned and carried out successfully.

The fruits of months of planning among members of the various branches of the University, Medical, Illinois, Navy Pier and Galesburg, was scheduled to be reaped at the first annual MING Festival, April 5, when trophies were awarded to the winners of Intramural Tournaments for the year and when the champions of the various branches of the University of Illinois met for the All-University titles.

The Morrow Chapter of Alpha Zeta, at the University of Illinois, is an honorary agricultural fraternity with a membership of twenty students and over one hundred faculty men. The object of this fraternity is to inspire high standards of scholarship, morals, and culture, to promote the advancement of agriculture, and to train its members to be leaders in every line of this great science.

Members are chosen from the students in the College of Agriculture who have demonstrated outstanding scholarship, leadership, and character qualifications during their first three semesters. These men further develop their ability through close association with the faculty members, and by practical application in inspiring other students to attain the goals of leadership, scholarship, and character which Alpha Zeta symbolizes.
The purpose of the society shall be to advance architectural and allied interests, and to promote a spirit of good fellowship among its members.

Gargoyle, national scholastic honorary society of architects, was founded at Cornell University. On the Illinois campus a local honorary named Psi Mu, founded in the spring of 1914, became the Beta chapter of Gargoyle on January 4, 1917.

Members are elected on the basis of scholarship, personality, and character, with emphasis placed on the students' scholastic average. Awards are presented annually to undergraduate students for outstanding work in architectural design and architectural engineering. The society provides an impetus for high standards of work in the school of architecture.

Honorary members may be elected from members in the college and University faculty and from those who won special distinction in the field of architecture and allied fields.
The history of Tau Beta Pi, since its founding in 1885 by Edward Higginson Williams, Jr., has been one of constant expansion. From its beginning at Lehigh University it has grown to its present size of seventy-nine active chapters.

The fraternity was conceived to recognize those who confer honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship in undergraduate work, or by their achievements as alumni in the field of engineering; and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America.

Tau Beta Pi was one of the six original members of the Association of College Honor Societies, formed in 1925 as a result of endeavors to clarify the situation regarding honor societies.

In 1897 Illinois Alpha became the fifth chapter founded. Today its membership includes eighteen undergraduates, over one hundred and fifty faculty men, and numerous graduate students.
Alpha Lambda Delta, National Scholastic Honorary for Freshman Women, was originally founded here in 1924 at the University of Illinois by Dean Maria Leonard for the purpose of “promoting intelligent living and a high standard of learning among the freshman women in our institutions of higher learning.” There are now 49 active chapters.

Qualifications for membership are: a scholastic average of 4.5; and a full program of academic work.

The activities of Alpha Lambda Delta include a tea given for all women with an average of 4.0 or better at the eight weeks' period, in order to encourage them to achieve eligibility for membership in this honorary; a Spring Initiation tea at which the Senior woman with the highest scholastic average is honored by being presented with a National Award, and certificates of Honorable Mention are presented to all Seniors who have maintained the 4.5 average for their four years of college; the maintenance of a library of textbooks for the use of girls who find college financially difficult.

Pledging and initiations are held each semester. The 1946 pledge class totaled 114 members.

The sponsor of the organization is Mrs. Helen Maddock Hudson, assistant Dean of Women.
Phi Eta Sigma, scholastic honorary for freshmen men, was founded at the University of Illinois in 1923 by Dean Thomas Arkle Clarke. Since its founding, chapters have sprung all over the country, in forty-nine leading colleges and universities.

Requirements for membership are two: candidates must be freshmen, and must earn a 4.5 average during their first semester in the University or by the end of their first year.

Although membership showed a big drop during the war years, over 100 men were initiated at the end of the first semester, 1945-46. Dean E. E. Stafford, faculty advisor, predicts a larger number will be initiated during this year.

Kappa Tau Alpha was founded at the University of Missouri in 1910 as an honor society to recognize and encourage outstanding scholarship in schools of journalism. The University of Illinois chapter, activated in 1925, is one of eighteen presently active. Only upperclassmen of high scholastic rank are invited to become members.

PI TAU SIGMA

Pi Tau Sigma, a national honorary fraternity for mechanical engineers, was founded at the University of Illinois in 1915. The purpose of the organization is “to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession, to stimulate interest in co-ordinate departmental activities, and to promote the welfare of its members.” It aims “to establish a closer bond of fellowship to those men in the study and in the profession of mechanical engineering, who by their academic or practical achievements manifest a real interest and marked ability in their chosen work.”

Phi Kappa Phi

OFFICERS

President: W. C. Huntington
Vice-President: S. C. Staley
Secretary: A. L. Young
Treasurer: Sylvia Gilmore
Historian: Mrs. A. R. Crathorne

Phi Kappa Phi is primarily a scholastic honorary, and the only one recognizing high scholarship on the part of students from all the colleges and schools of the University. Undergraduates are elected when seniors, the number so honored being restricted to five percent or less of those graduating. Graduate students are usually elected, when scholastically eligible, from those that are candidates for the Doctorate. Faculty members may be elected in recognition of outstanding achievement. (Names of 1946-47 initiates will be listed in the 1948 Illio).
The purpose of the Agriculture Club is to foster and promote the interest of students in the profession of agriculture.

The Agriculture Club is open to all students in the College of Agriculture. Affiliated with the Agriculture Club are several subsidiary clubs for students specializing in the various technical fields—Hoof and Horn, Field and Furrow, Poultry Science, Dairy Technology, Dairy Production, Horticulture Club, Agriculture Education Club, Agriculture Engineering, and Agriculture Economics.

Outstanding events of the year sponsored by the Agriculture Club and subsidiary clubs and in some cases with the Home Economics Club are: All Field Day, Plow Boy Prom, Little International, Spring Judging Contest, and All Agriculture Banquet.

The purpose of the Accountancy Club is to foster and maintain a sincere interest in the science of accounting; to bring to the members professional information; to acquaint the members with the ethics of the accounting profession; to bring before the members information concerning educational and honorary achievements in the College of Commerce; and to promote friendly contact between students, faculty, and members of the accounting profession. All students in the University who have received credit for two semesters of accountancy are eligible for membership.

Each semester four meetings are held. The highlight of each meeting is a talk by a member of the accounting profession or the accountancy faculty.

Alpha Kappa Psi, the first and oldest commerce fraternity, was founded on October 5, 1904, at New York University. Since 1904, sixty-two student chapters have been installed in leading educational institutions throughout the country.

The aims of Alpha Kappa Psi are "to further the individual welfare of its members; to foster scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals therein; and to promote and advance in institutions of college rank, courses leading to degrees in business administration."

Epsilon of Alpha Kappa Psi was the fifth chapter to be installed, and it was formed on April 16, 1913 at the University of Illinois.

Membership is based on good character, scholarship, and satisfactory ability for potential business success. Many faculty members are members of Alpha Kappa Psi and the opportunity is provided for meetings, parties, and educational lectures between faculty members and student members.

ISABEL BEVIER
HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Through the Isabel Bevier Home Economics Club, the girls who are enrolled in the home economics curriculum at the University of Illinois become better acquainted with each other, as well as with the field of Home Economics.

Contests, relays, an outdoor supper, and square dancing composed the program for the All Ag Field Day held October 10 by the Home Economics and Agriculture Clubs. Miss Florence Harrison, head of the Home Economics department at the University of Missouri, spoke to the club on November 14, the birthday of the club’s founder, Miss Isabel Bevier.

The highlight of the year, the Plowboy Prom, was sponsored by the Agriculture and the Home Economics Clubs. The fellows, dressed in blue jeans, greeted the gingham-clad lassies with vegetable corsages, ready for a gay informal evening of dancing. Home Economics Club members honored their mothers with a tea on Mother’s Day weekend. At the formal spring banquet, initiation was held, newly-elected officers were introduced, and scholarship awards were presented.

The Marketing Club, a progressive organization for future business men and women, was organized May 11, 1939, and reactivated last spring following inactivity during the war. The club, working toward its pre-war membership, now has three hundred members.

The purpose of the club is to provide a source of information to its members of the opportunities that are open in marketing, salesmanship, credit management, transportation, and other fields of industry.

The club meets once a month throughout the school year, and at each meeting a well-known executive is asked to discuss the marketing problems facing his particular field. These meetings are helpful to the members in deciding what phases of business they would like to enter, and what courses they should take to be assured of the right training for the position they desire after graduation.

The membership, formerly limited to marketing majors, is now extended to anyone who is interested in marketing.

The purposes of the national organization of Sigma Delta Pi are to foment a wider knowledge of and a greater love for the Hispanic contributions to modern culture; to stimulate a greater interest therein on the part of students in colleges and universities of the United States; to foster friendly relations and cooperative spirit between the nations of Hispanic speech and of English speech; and to reward those who show special attainments and interests in Hispanic studies.

Every year Lambda chapter at the University of Illinois has assumed the responsibility of sponsoring certain activities intended to further these purposes. During the fall semester it has sponsored a reception for Latin-American students on the campus, both to welcome them to our university and to fulfill its purpose of promotion of friendly relations between our own and the Spanish-speaking countries. In the spring Sigma Delta Pi presents a Latin-American movie to the public.

Students who have attained to a certain standard of excellency in their studies of the Spanish language and literature are given formal recognition of their achievements by their initiation into active membership in the organization, and honorary membership may be held by members of the faculty and other supporters of the cause of Hispanic cultures.
SPANISH CLUB

Dedicated to the task of increasing interest in the Spanish language and culture and of making closer the bonds of friendship between the United States and countries of Spanish speech, the Spanish Club served these ends through its yearly program. Meetings held twice monthly throughout the fall and spring semesters were regularly attended by faculty members and students, including many of the Latin-American students who were on the campus this year. Among the programs of greatest interest this year were a talk on Guatemala by Professor Arthur Hamilton, a group of movies on Mexico, a “variety” program, an art lecture, and a Christmas fiesta.

The club also presents one Spanish-language film every year in a public meeting, and for the benefit of students desiring practice in speaking Spanish it has sponsored several informal gatherings of students and faculty members for afternoon coffee. A chorus under the direction of Miss Catalina Spinetta was organized to lead singing and to present special numbers at regular programs.

Spanish Club was founded by a group of students who began to meet in the home of the late Professor J. D. Fitzgerald about the year 1907. At that time it was known as El Circulo Literario Espanol, and this has been retained as the official name of the present organization.

SHI-AI

Shi-Ai, first known as Yo Ma, has been active on this campus since 1907. During that time it has established closer relations between sororities and arranged inter-sorority activities. This year has seen two major changes, the extension of membership to twenty-two sororities and the merging of Shi-Ai with Sophomore Pan-Hellenic Council, which together create a more functional and efficient organization.

The fall activities are concerned with pledging. At an informal party the juniors make arrangements for the choosing of two pledges from each sorority on the basis of their participation in activities. The new pledges then visit each member house, entertaining them with an original stunt.

The Shi-Ai Sing has been a highlight of the Mother's Day Week-end each spring. The Sing, in addition to presenting sorority group songs, sponsors a milk fund drive. The money received is used to provide milk for needy families in Champaign and Urbana.

Shi-Ai affords an opportunity for friendship to be strengthened between sorority girls as individuals and as groups, as well as serving the campus and community.

Skull and Crescent Fraternity regained much of its pre-war prominence this year after a period of wartime inactivity. All of the twenty-five prominent campus fraternities which make up the membership of Skull and Crescent were again active, and a full membership of fifty men was realized second semester.

The members of the fraternity are picked from outstanding activity freshmen, who are then active during their sophomore year. Two men are picked from each house, the idea being to promote good will among the fraternity members. Initiation of these new men was held both in May and in October.

In addition to the regular bi-weekly dinner meetings, the traditional Skull and Crescent Pajama Race was held with great success. The formal Christmas dance was also revived, and the fraternity looks forward to an even fuller year in 1947-48.

"The electrical industry of the future will depend upon the college student. How shall he prepare himself to measure up to the new demands?"

This is one of the many problems which presents itself at the frequent meetings of the student chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Every young engineer joins his fellow students in the co-operation which underlies progress in the individual and in the industry.

At present the A.I.E.E., meets jointly with the local student branch of the Institute of Radio Engineers. The meetings are varied and include student get-togethers as well as lectures given by members of the faculty and representatives of industry.

The student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the University of Illinois accepts membership from any civil engineering student whose grades meet the standard set by the College of Engineering. The object of the society is to acquaint the student with the practical phases of engineering; to develop in him a professional point of view; to provide for and foster fraternal spirit among engineering students; to familiarize the student with the purpose, parliamentary procedure, and objectives of a professional engineering society; to arrange for and sponsor inspection trips; to encourage, promote, and support student publications and professional and social activities of the College of Engineering.
All sophomores, juniors, and senior chemical engineers are eligible to join the student chapter of the Institute. The members meet to discuss problems concerning their work and their profession, and also to acquaint themselves with successful men in the profession for further information concerning the aspects of the field. The student chapter of the Institute strives to promote a closer bond of friendship and professional spirit between the classes of chemical engineers.

The officers of A.I.C.E. are Robert Beals, president; Stanly Slazinski, vice-president; Elmer Harris, Jr., secretary; and Richard Divilbiss, treasurer.

A. S. A. E.

The membership of the Student Branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers includes students enrolled in agricultural engineering courses. Its purpose is to create a professional interest and permit students to participate in programs featuring different phases of agricultural engineering.

The activities include regular semi-monthly meetings with special programs where agricultural engineering subjects are discussed. Speakers at many of these meetings are men from outside the University. A picnic and a banquet are held each year. A lunch stand is operated during Farm and Home Week as a service to visitors and to provide funds for student trips to national meetings.
The Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers functions primarily for the purpose of familiarizing the embryo engineer with a knowledge of the various fields open to him as well as to develop in him a professional spirit and code of ethics. At the regular meetings, significant developments and new ideas pertaining to Mechanical Engineering are presented and discussed.

To further acquaint the student with recent trends in Mechanical Engineering the parent society publishes a monthly periodical which contains informative and interesting articles.

Members of the Student Branch are eligible to compete for various prizes and awards.

AMERICAN CERAMICS SOCIETY

When the American Ceramic Society authorized the formation of student branches in schools offering curricula in ceramic engineering, one of the first charters granted was to the University of Illinois in 1925.

The purposes of the organization are to stimulate the professional interest of ceramic engineering students in their field and to familiarize them with the activities of the national organization. Meetings are held for discussions on current topics of interest and for lectures given by important men in their respective fields on modern developments and trends in the ceramic industries.
AMVETS POST 65

The American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS) was formed by veterans, for veterans, and so constituted as to be run by veterans. Each member of every post is given the opportunity to vote on every question of organizational policy before any action is taken nationally.

Campus AMVETS Post No. 65 was organized to aid and serve veterans attending the University. AMVETS work to secure adequate housing, to prevent unjust rental practices, to increase subsistence benefits, and to institute any action necessary to the welfare of the veteran and the general community. Membership is open to all honorably discharged veterans of World War II.

ALPHA DELTA SIGMA

The Charles H. Dennis chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity, was reactivated in 1943 for students and professional men actively interested in advertising.

Professional men are invited to speak at the semi-weekly meetings. ADS aids newspaper associations with their advertising contests, and makes an annual award to the outstanding junior in the school of journalism.

The officers are: Robert Stelzer, president; Ted Denton, vice-president; Warren Lutey, treasurer; James Dickinson, secretary.
Alpha Kappa Delta is a democratic, non-secret organization dedicated to the scientific study of social phenomena for the promotion of human welfare.

Membership selection in this organization is based on superior scholarship and a serious interest in sociology. To be eligible for membership, a student must have sociology as his major or minor, must have a "B" average in all his academic work, and must be approved by three-fourths of the chapter members.

Alpha Kappa Delta has as its ideal to help create a world-wide culture in which all men co-operate for the good of all.

Alpha Pi Delta is an organization in which an effort is made to bind together all girls interested in a continuation of the scouting program for girls of college age. The members of Alpha Pi Delta strive to serve the community, the local Girl Scout council, and the university, as well as participating in the other popular phases of scouting. Alpha Pi Delta is open to all girls of college age interested in scouting.

The officers are: president, Katie Hamrick; vice-president, Helen Cline; secretary, Clara Castelo; treasurer, Mary Moore; social chairman, Alice Kennedy and Mabel Val Dez; publicity chairman, Betsy Rasmussen.
ALPHA SIGMA NU

In 1919, a group of W.A.A. girls decided that the girls in the Woman's Athletic Association should have something higher to work for—an organization that would be an incentive to girls interested in athletics, health education and scholarship. It was decided to call the organization Alpha Sigma Nu, the first letters of which were taken from the Greek translation of “Strength in Body, Mind and Spirit.” The following requirements for membership have been established: (1) junior or senior standing in the University, (2) A 4, all-university average, (3) Exceptional ability in physical education activities and superior leadership qualities, (4) Six sport season credits in W.A.A.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity composed of college and university men who are or have been previously affiliated with the Boy Scouts. Being a service fraternity, it crosses all lines of honorary, social, and professional fraternities.

One of its many campus activities is service to the student body by participating in activities of the Guide and Travel Committee of Illini Union.

Service to local scouting organizations is provided by the many members who are leaders in local scouting groups. Another service to scouting is the presentation of a weekly radio program to aid the local scouting movement.
Since the spring of 1922, when Chi Epsilon was founded on the campus of the University of Illinois, it has become one of the largest honorary societies for civil engineers. Scholarship, character, personality, and sociability are traits which the society endeavors to develop. The basic objective of the fraternity is to increase the efficiency of the civil engineering profession as an instrument of social betterment. This is accomplished by gathering together a nucleus of capable men of high standards who will apply the widening scientific principles to the practical needs of society. Chi Epsilon sponsors lectures, engineering forums, technical movies, dinners, and dances.

The membership of the Floriculture Club consists of students majoring in floriculture. The club was organized to promote fellowship among the floriculture students and to give them an opportunity of exploring the fields closely related to floricultural work. Guest speakers are invited from these fields to lecture at the monthly meetings. The Floriculture Club also elects a committee to assemble news items of present and former floriculture students, which are published in a mimeographed paper entitled "The Illini Florograph" and mailed several times a year to all alumni and distributed to undergraduates.
HOOF AND HORN CLUB

The Hoof and Horn Club, a subsidiary organization of the Ag Club, was organized to enable agricultural students interested in Animal Husbandry to become better acquainted with others in their field and to broaden their knowledge and outlook in livestock production and management.

The regular club meetings, which are held once a month, often feature guest speakers who have distinguished themselves in the field of Animal Husbandry. Besides holding the regular meetings, the Hoof and Horn Club sponsors two events, the Little International in the fall and the Livestock Judging Contest in the spring.

The Illini Archers, a club formed to promote interest in field, hunting, and target archery was organized in September, 1946. Its only restriction to membership is a keen interest in the interesting and skillful sport of archery.

The club was started by students interested in archery and the fine code of sportsmanship which it involves. Soon membership increased to a point where satisfactory competition was possible, teams were formed, and the final result was archery meets with other schools.

The club meets weekly at the archery range. Occasionally the Illini Archers meet indoors to discuss club activities or to see movies on some fascinating phase of the ancient sport of archery.
SOCIETY OF ILLUSTRATORS

The activities of Illustrators consist of pledging, formal initiation, student-faculty mixers, smokers, and receptions for prominent lecturers. Illustrators reinstated the Fine Arts Costume Ball as a major dance. The Illustrators promote good fellowship between the students and faculty.

The officers for the year are: Ellen Attebery, president; Margaret Anderson, vice-president; Jean Rogers, secretary; Frank Mula, treasurer.

INSTITUTE OF AERONAUTICAL SCIENCES

The student branch of the IAS at Illinois gives the Aeronautical Engineering Students an opportunity to form friendships among men of like interests. It also enables them to meet the professors and instructors under whom they will study. At the meetings, held the first Wednesday in each month, there are movies and discussions on aeronautical subjects which are designed to encourage interest and to show applications of the courses in the Aeronautical Engineering Curriculum. The national IAS is comprised of the big names in the Aircraft Industry, and we, as student members, derive the advantages from such associations.
The purpose of Omega Beta Pi, a pre-med honorary, is to promote a better understanding among premedical students of the problems, aims, and high standards of their future profession. With this objective in mind, the organization has endeavored to present to the pre-medical body relevant programs, including movies and lectures.

Seeking to stimulate and encourage the attainment of superior grades, Omega Beta Pi presents a $25.00 award each Spring to the Pre-Med who has attained the highest average in physical sciences for three semesters, and accords recognition to the freshman who has achieved the highest average in his first semester.

Phi Chi Theta is a professional organization for girls enrolled in the College of Commerce. The purpose is to promote the cause of highest business education and training for all women. Sigma Chapter, one of the twenty-five active chapters over the nation, has rushing, pledging, and initiation for selected girls once each semester. Each prospective pledge must have at least sophomore standing and a 3.3 all University average. Tests are given for the commerce instructors and students; the organization also sponsors lectures. Through the planning and execution of these functions, the spirit of co-operation, a necessary quality for business women, is encouraged.
Phi Mu Alpha is a national professional and honorary musical fraternity. Membership is determined primarily by musical capacity and ability.

During each year, two recitals are presented. One is given by the chapter members, and the other by the pledges. Also, a radio broadcast series was inaugurated this year.

Several dinners and other varied social events are held during the year. Receptions are given for the many Sinfonians who come to our campus during the school year as distinguished musical guests.

The officers are: Rowland Smith, president; Lloyd Strang, vice-president; William Brophy, secretary; Alfred Griffin, treasurer; Warren Schuetz, pledge-master; Prof. Sherman Schoonmaker, faculty adviser.

Phi Upsilon Omicron, a national and professional honorary organization, was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1909 for the purpose of establishing and strengthening the bonds of friendship, promoting the moral and intellectual development of its members, and advancing and promoting Home Economics.

One of its projects is the collection of material for the bibliography of Miss Isabel Bevier, former head of the Department of Home Economics at Illinois and a pioneer and outstanding leader. Another project is the dressing of a figurine in the prevailing fashion of the year, and keeping a scrapbook of incoming trends of fashion and design.

The officers are: president, Helen Bowditch; vice-president, Shirley Haven; secretary, Dorothy Ann Price; and treasurer, Ethelyn Taylor.

PI MU EPSILON

The aim of Pi Mu Epsilon is "scholarship for the individual members in all subjects and particularly in mathematics; the advancement of the science of mathematics; and the mutual and personal advancement of its members." Pi Mu Epsilon was founded at Syracuse University, May 25, 1914. The charter of the Illinois chapter was granted on the twentieth day of May, 1924, to thirty-two members of the faculty and student body. At the annual spring initiation banquet, the undergraduate senior or seniors especially outstanding in mathematics are awarded the Pi Mu Epsilon scholarship prize.

Psi Chi, the University of Illinois psychology club, is a national honorary society, composed of psychology majors and minors. To be eligible for membership an individual must have a 4.0 average in all psychology courses and a 3.5 average in all other courses. A specified number of hours in the field of psychology must also have been completed. The officers for 1946 are: president, Ruth Stark; vice-president, Dorothy Buzzard; secretary, Helen Palmer; treasurer, Joanna Cavence; membership chairman, Annette Levin. Speakers in the field, movies, and informal discussions comprise the meetings of Psi Chi.
The membership of the Illini Rural Life Club is not limited, but open to everyone who is interested.

The objectives are: to increase the contacts and stimulate fellowship among young men and women who are interested in rural life; to gain a more thorough knowledge of rural life by an understanding of the problems in rural life, and to create a desire in and develop the ability to solve these problems; to develop an understanding and appreciation of the growing inter-relationship between rural and urban people.

The officers are: president, Charles Botterbusch; first vice-president, Doris Barty; second vice-president, Meta Keller; secretary, Lila Athy; and treasurer, Frank Mealiff.

Scarab, the National Architectural Fraternity, aims to orient its members with the technical, ethical, and social tenets of the architectural profession.

One phase of its program is the development through competition for the three Scarab Medals in Architecture. These medals are awarded on the following bases: one to the sophomore or junior designer whose problem is selected as the best, and one to the junior engineer who has achieved outstanding academic and social proficiency.

The Fraternity also sponsors exhibits and lectures by those who have proven themselves professionally in architecture and its allied arts.
SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

Sigma Alpha Iota is a professional fraternity for university women in the field of music. Membership is based on excellence in scholarship and musical ability. All women enrolled in the School of Music are eligible for membership.

S.A.I. is particularly active in presenting musical programs—two public concerts a year, a monthly musicale, and a radio program on WILL every Saturday at ten o'clock. Every year each chapter awards a pledge cup to the outstanding pledge, and Honor Certificate to the senior with the highest scholastic average, and the Sword of Honor for exceptional leadership.

SIGMA DELTA CHI

Suspended during the war, Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, was re-activated in February, 1946. It sponsored the first journalism awards convocation, June, 1946, and secured Philip Adler, editor of the Kewanee Star- Courier, as the speaker. Theodore Kimble was selected as the outstanding male journalism graduate that semester.

Reviving "The College TUMOR - An Outgrowth of the Student Body," Sigma Delta Chi published a homecoming edition in October, 1946, and used the proceeds to send their official representative to the national convention.
Sigma Tau, an honor society for engineers, was founded February 22, 1904 at the University of Nebraska, but in the years immediately following the fraternity's establishment, the national expansion was discouraged. However, following the election of the first National Council in 1912, the history of the fraternity has been one of constant expansion. On March 3, 1930 Sigma Tau was admitted to full membership in the Association of College Honor Societies.

In the thirty-two years of its existence, Theta of Illinois has maintained a high standard by putting emphasis on three qualifications: scholarship, practicality, and sociability.

Seven women students at the University of Washington in Seattle established the honorary professional fraternity known as Theta Sigma Phi on April 8, 1909. Its objectives are to unite women engaging in or planning to engage in journalism or letters; to achieve definite standards in journalism and letters; to improve working conditions for women in these fields; to inspire members to greater individual effort.

Theta Sigma Phi's major campus activity is the Matrix table, an annual dinner for members and guests, featuring a speech by a prominent person working in the journalistic field.
Zeta Phi Eta, national professional speech arts fraternity, is composed of women students from all phases of the speech curricula. Its members are chosen not only for scholarship, but for high ideals which will maintain the standards of the organization. Each year Zeta Phi Eta sponsors a “curtain raiser”—a program which brings an outstanding speaker to the campus. Another tradition is the Zeta Phi Eta plaque, upon which are written the names of those senior women who have done outstanding work in the field of speech.

The officers are: president, Carolyn Dallenbach; vice-president, Norma Whitton; recording secretary, Doris Mellon; corresponding secretary, Barbara Gulley; treasurer, Marjorie Brown; and marshal, Mary Kruh.

ZETA PHI ETA

TURKISH STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

The Turkish Student Association is a social and cultural organization of Turkish students on the campus. It was formed in November 1944 and now it is affiliated to the National headquarters in New York.

The main object of the association is to introduce the Turkish group to the campus and thus create a stronger belief in their ideas of mutual friendship and international brotherhood.

Activities consist of giving speeches about Turkey to all kinds of gatherings, of holding Turkish Coffee Hours and of participation in sports. The members feel much obliged for the interest the campus has shown them.
Phi Lambda Upsilon was founded in 1899 at the University of Illinois. The purpose of the organization is to honor outstanding scholarship and encourage original research in the pure and applied branches of chemistry. Phi Lambda Upsilon has grown into a national society comprising 39 chapters and over 10,000 members. Only upper classmen and graduate students of the highest scholastic rank are asked to become members. To further the purpose of the group Alpha chapter sponsors lectures and awards an annual prize to the sophomore in chemistry or chemical engineering who maintains the highest scholastic average during his first three semesters' work.

Kappa Delta Pi was founded at the University of Illinois in 1911 by William Bagley, Truman Kelley, and Stephen Calvin. It seeks to encourage high professional, intellectual, and personal standards and to recognize outstanding contributions in the field of education. It is the only national coeducational honor society in American education that opens membership to undergraduate and graduate students and members of the education and allied faculties. Alpha Chapter maintains a loan fund and makes an annual award to the outstanding senior in the College of Education.
BETA GAMMA SIGMA

Beta Gamma Sigma, the national honor society exclusively for students of commerce, was organized on February 26, 1913, with chapters at Illinois, California, and Wisconsin. Designed solely to honor outstanding scholastic accomplishment in the field of commerce and business administration, membership is limited to those men and women students who rank in the upper two per cent of the junior class or the upper ten per cent of the senior class and who give promise of marked success in their chosen field.

Today, with chapters at fifty of the leading schools and colleges of commerce throughout the United States, alumni number in excess of fifteen thousand and include many of the leading businessmen and industrialists of the country.

PERSHING RIFLES

The Pershing Rifles is a National Honorary Military Fraternity. The members of the unit are selected by instructors in the Military Department who submit names to the officers of Pershing Rifles. These men are invited to attend drill meetings to determine eligibility for membership in the organization.

The work of the Pershing Rifles consists mainly of drill. It has a drill team which competes against other universities in drill, as athletes compete in their respective sports. The unit has instituted a National Rifle Association rifle team.

"AS THE TWIG IS BENT ----"

As applied to American farming, there's more than a fragment of truth in the old saying, "As the twig is bent, the tree inclines".

We in America, with traditions deep-rooted in our hearts, have chosen to be guided by those traditions rather than to be bound by them. We cling to the old as long as its value is proved, yet quickly cast aside the traditional way when a better method proves its basic worth. The swing to power farming, the ever broadening use of the combine, the increasing trend to conservation farming—each may be considered, each was considered in its time, a break with tradition. Yet as intrepid pioneers established and proved new methods—new, easier, faster, more convenient ways of doing the farming job—the American farmer has been quick to adapt them to his own use.

The great, sturdy tree of American agriculture is deep-rooted in the rich soil of our country, yet it is a living, changing, vital tree, adapting its development as the twig is bent.

YOU WILL WANT TO BE IN

A COMPLETE WEBER OFFICE is like a stage perfectly set for a great performance. Each major item of equipment... Weber Chair, Majestic Unit, RayDex X-Ray... is the last word in efficiency and beauty. Each is a model selected to suit exactly the practitioner's needs and preferences, located so that his individual operating techniques may function with maximum skill and minimum effort. Plan now to "star" in such a "picture."

A complete Weber office designed and equipped especially for you will be a wise (and surprisingly moderate) investment that will pay big dividends in professional prestige and income for many years. Why not consult your Weber Dealer, and also write Weber for descriptive literature.

No matter where they are used—in yearbooks, literature, or advertising—poorly reproduced illustrations give many readers the same impressions as paintings of a "ham" artist when compared with the works of a master. That's why so many schools, colleges, and universities, as well as prominent advertisers, insist upon fine engravings—as produced by master craftsmen at G. R. Grubb & Co.—for true reproductions of all illustrations. For nearly forty years this company has been serving such institutions and business firms in every section of the country—and its reputation has become more enviable every year. You, too, can depend upon......
CHOOSING THE RIGHT BOOKBINDER

The degree of success your book or catalog enjoys may well depend on the binding you choose. Select an experienced bookbinding organization—one whose expert knowledge assures quality and whose craftsmanship assures correctness and lasting wear.

Brock and Rankin have a background of bookbinding experience and craftsmanship which assure skilful performance of all operations, and sincerity in maintaining the most exacting standards of bookbinding.

A good book is worthy of being well bound.
